Five More Miners Rescued

Treaty Cleared By Senate Group

Floor Debate On Ratification Opens Sept. 9

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 16 to 1 Thursday to urge that the Senate ratify without reservation the treaty to ban all nuclear testing except underground.

Two moves to delay action on the pact were rejected 11 to 5. A 10-7 vote defeated an effort to demand from the Kennedy administration all correspondence between Washington and Moscow leading up to and during negotiation of the treaty.

The senators, acting swiftly, weighed more than two weeks of conflicting testimony by military and scientific experts and political leaders, and agreed to take the treaty to the Senate floor on Monday, Sept. 9.

It was agreed that the committee would include in its report to the Senate the U.S. "understandings" and "interpretations" of the meaning of the treaty's terms. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was among those who had urged reservations to clarify what they consider dangerous, ambiguous language.

Long Only Dissenter

Strong proponents of the treaty have protested that reservations would have to be renegotiated and that this might entangle the pact in international wrangling. The course the committee proposed would not require renegotiation, the senators were told.

The lone dissenter of committee approval of the treaty was Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La. He issued a statement later saying this does not mean necessarily that he will vote against ratification when the pact reaches the floor.

Long said he is not convinced that the treaty will not jeopardize the U.S. defense capability and believes the committee should have taken more time to study it. If there was a Senate roll call now, he would vote "no," Long said, but added his views might be changed by additional study of the testimony.

Vote Possible By Sept. 16

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the committee who announced its action, said a formal report will be made to the Senate next Tuesday or Wednesday. He said debate should be completed by Sept. 16 although this was not a definite prediction.

The move to get all correspondence relating to negotiation of the treaty, including that between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev, was made by Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa. In the 10-7 turndown, he was supported by Sens. Long; Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio; George D. Aiken, R-Vt.; Frank Carlson, R-Kan.; John J. Williams, R-Del.; and Karl E. Mundt R - S.D. Ten Democrats voted against the move.

Mundt sought to delay a vote until 48 hours after printing the record of the committee's hearings. In losing, 11 to 5, he was supported by Long, Lausche, Hickenlooper and Williams, with Carlson not recorded.

Geneva Disarmament Sessions Recessed

GENEVA (UPI) — The 17-nation disarmament conference Thursday recessed for about two months to await the outcome of disarmament discussions in the United Nations General Assembly.

Neutral and Communist delegates were optimistic that further East-West agreements would follow those establishing a "hot line" communications link between Washington and Moscow and banning nuclear tests in the air and under-water.

Maniac Sought In Knife Killing Of Two Girls

NEW YORK (AP) — Police hunted a sex-minded sadist Thursday in the savage knife slaying in a fashionable apartment of two career girls from prominent families.

The father of one said she had received threatening calls recently, the last one 10 days ago, but that he had believed them the work of "some crazy kid who saw a nice pair of legs."

The bodies, one nude and one clothed, were bound with torn bedsheets.

Police said the slayings Wednesday were so wanton that they were discarding an earlier theory that they might be the work of a common burglar. Clues were scarce.

The victims were:

Janice Wylie, 21, a blonde editorial employe of Newsweek magazine who had acted in summer stock in Massachusetts. She was the daughter of Max Wylie, writer and television producer, and a niece of author Philip Wylie. She was a native of Evanston, Ill.

Emily Hoffert, 23, brunette daughter of Dr. Henry Hoffert, a leading Minneapolis surgeon. She was to have begun a teaching career next month at Valley Stream, N.Y., on Long Island.

Max Wylie told police of the telephone calls to his daughter. He said he had urged her to report them to the police even though he thought they were just from a "crazy kid."

The victims shared the four-room, $250-a-month apartment with Patricia Tolles, 23, an editorial employe of Time magazine and daughter of Winton Tolles, dean of Hamilton College at Clinton, N.Y. She was at her office at the time of the slayings.

Arbitrators Are Named By Railroads

Wolfe And Knight Selected; Unions' Choices Awaited

WASHINGTON (AP)—The railroads moved quickly Thursday to set up their side of an arbitration board that will keep the trains running for the next six months at least.

Named to represent management on the new board, created by an act of Congress to head off a strike due to start last midnight, are J. E. Wolfe of Chicago, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, and Guy W. Knight of Philadelphia, vice president for labor relations of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Wolfe was chief negotiator for the railroads at a long and futile series of peace-seeking meetings with five on-train unions.

Union Choices Awaited

Spokesmen for the unions said they will announce their two appointments to the board by Friday.

The four representatives then will try to agree on three neutral members to round out the seven-member board which will make binding decisions on two big issues in the four-year-old controversy.

The issues involve the railroads' insistence on abolishing the jobs of some 32,000 firemen whose services they say are no longer needed, and the question of how many men should be assigned to train crews.

10 Days To Complete Panel

If the four cannot agree on three public members of the board, President Kennedy will make the appointments. Under the law which Kennedy signed Wednesday night the board must be completed within 10 days after filing. They will continue in effect for two years.

The unions and management are to negotiate for settlement of six other issues, including wage patterns and additional work rules involving job security.

The no-strike provision adopted by Congress will remain in effect for 180 days, after which the unions would be free to strike over the other issues.

This could throw the whole controversy back in the lap of Congress along about next March if another stalemate develops.

Kennedy At Cape Following Delay

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy settled in for a long Labor Day weekend of relaxation at his Cape Cod summer home Thursday night but there were indications that official business might interrupt his leisure.

Kennedy's jet plane landed at nearby Otis Air Force Base more than an hour behind the announced schedule.

In Washington, Kennedy aides insisted there was no special reason for the delay.

Observers had speculated that Kennedy might have postponed his flight because of the continuing crisis in South Viet Nam, or possibly because of discussions on international economic matters.

The President appeared to favor his ailing back as he came down the plane ramp, taking each step slowly and running his left hand down the railing.

Repeal Of Viet Nam Restrictions Seen

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Military and government spokesmen conditionally forecast Thursday an end to the martial law gripping South Viet Nam.

"If conditions continue as they are now, martial law may be lifted within a few days," said an official high in President Ngo Dinh Diem's administration.

The military governor of Saigon, Brig. Gen. Ton That Dinh, addressed a news conference on the same topic.

Dinh said martial law will be lifted as soon as there is solid evidence the Buddhist crisis is over—and this will demand cooperation of the foreign press. The general did not elaborate, but implied he wanted an end to news stories critical of Diem's regime.

The best available information here is that reports which build up the idea of palace power struggles, clashes between military and civil leaders and so forth do not accurately reflect the situation.

Diem and his adviser-brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, head of the secret police, seem to be to each other what they have always been. Military generals are hand-picked and have always followed orders. Communiques from the generals can be regarded as the same thing as communiques from the presidential palace.

There is no sign of the organization of any movement or group which is capable of overthrowing the government—except possibly the Communist Viet Cong.

Vu Van Mau, who submitted his resignation as foreign minister in protest against the wholesale raids on pagodas and the round-up of Buddhist monks and nuns Aug. 21, departed by plane with his wife and three daughters on a Buddhist pilgrimage to India.

Cuba Bolsters Northern Coast, Alerts Militia

HAVANA (AP)—The Castro government has alerted its militia forces and moved large concentrations of artillery and antiaircraft batteries to the northern coast of Cuba, it was learned Thursday night.

The military moves coincided with widespread reports of a possible new invasion threat by anti-Castro forces. The military was understood to be watching particularly for any attack from Nicaragua or other Central American bases.

The militia alert has been in effect for three days, informants said.

There was no evidence of alarm in Havana, but tight security measures were reported outside the capital.

The Cuban command apparently braced for a repetition of hit-and-run raids reported two weeks ago along the northern coast. Many oil refineries and factories are located there.

The Castro government said those raids proved there was a new plan of aggression against Cuba and declared at the time that the country would take new measures to assure its defense. Troops were deployed along the northern coast.

After raiders were reported to have shelled and machinegunned a metal plant Aug. 19, the government issued a communique accusing the United States of direct responsibility for the attack.

Foreign Aid Director Criticizes House Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign Aid Director David E. Bell predicted Thursday that Russia and Red China will step up their campaign to dominate underdeveloped areas once the limited test ban treaty takes effect.

Bell made this forecast at a news conference in which he sharply criticized in detail last Friday's House action chopping the Kennedy administration's revised foreign aid program by $585 million — down to $3.5 billion.

If sustained by the Senate, he said, the slash would deliver "a severe setback to U.S. efforts to . . . defeat the Communist thrust around the world."

Water Deposit Fails To Deter Bova Rescuers

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Rescuers, driving without letup to determine the fate of trapped Louis Bova, ran into another of nature's snags Thursday—a water deposit—but they said it was not a serious setback to their efforts.

The water was encountered in the 12-inch hole and a companion six-inch shaft, but the experts could not quickly ascertain its depth.

A light rain fell during the day, the first since Aug. 17, four days after Bova, 54, was trapped in a nearby Sheppton coal mine along with—but separated from—David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 28.

In the intervening time — the 17th day from the cave-in at 9 a.m. Aug. 13—Bova has been without food, and presumed to have subsisted on brackish water. He was last heard from, by report of the other two, on Aug. 19.

The water was detected Thursday by dropping pebbles down the shafts, the sounds of their splashing then being picked up by ultra-sensitive microphones.

Authorities said the water would in no way deter the rescue attempts, which are being intensified by way of four holes, the one 12 inches in diameter, another 6½ inches across, and the other 3 inches wide. The two larger holes have been bored into the burrow where it is believed Bova was trapped.

Early Thursday a microphone on an intercom system was lowered the more than 300 feet into the chamber, and for hours rescuers shouted down, "Lou! Lou! Hello there, Lou!"

They met only a hollow silence.

Crews started enlarging the 12-inch escape hole early Thursday. Supervisors said this work may take two days to complete. When this hole is reamed out to desired diameter a man — strictly a volunteer—may be lowered to the chamber to look for Bova.

Students Home, Stage Sitdown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fifty American students who toured Cuba for eight weeks as guests of Premier Fidel Castro returned to the United States Thursday night and 45 of them staged a sitdown demonstration at the airport because State Department officials tried to stamp their passports invalid.

The sitdown demonstration lasted two hours and 40 minutes—until federal officials agreed no stamp would be placed on the passports. The students, however, were given letters from the State Department informing them their passport privileges had been "tentatively withheld."

The students had been warned they faced government sanctions when they returned because they violated a State Department travel restriction to Cuba. They could face penalties of as much as five years in prison and $5,000 fine.

William T. McConerty Jr., officer in charge of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Office, said that the students agreed to end their demonstration after they were assured their passports would be stamped with nothing more than a stamp indicating they had re-entered the country.

Smoke-Bomb Holdup
Ohioan Held For Robbing Baltimore Bank Branch

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 47-year-old Canton, Ohio, man was being held in lieu of $25,000 bond tonight for the smoke-bomb robbery of a branch bank today.

The suspect, who was charged after he was apprehended by State Police on the Baltimore Beltway, was identified as Joseph Vernon Bickar of Canton.

The bespectacled bandit robbed a bank branch in a shopping center of more than $6,800, then exploded a smoke bomb to discourage pursuers.

But about four hours later a Maryland State trooper arrested a motorist who police said admitted being the bandit. Police said an undetermined amount of money was found in the car.

The bank was held up at 11:01 a.m. The arrest was made shortly after 3 p.m.

Witnesses said the man — wearing a hat, glasses and a transparent raincoat — displayed no gun during the robbery of the Equitable Trust Co. branch in the Westview Shopping Center, on Baltimore's west outskirts.

Mrs. Nancy Whetzel, 31, a teller, said the man walked to her window demanded that she put money into a bag.

"Are you kidding?" she asked.

"No, I'm not," he replied. "I have a hand grenade here.

She gathered up loose bills and stuffed them into a canvas bag from her drawer.

Fred Bossi, a customer, said the bandit dropped the smoke bomb, a canister the size of a tomato can, as he left.

"We heard an explosion and white smoke came from the floor," said Bossi.

Bossi said he followed the bandit out of the bank, saw him get into an automobile and, accompanied by a bank official, hopped into his own car and gave chase.

They lost the getaway car in highway traffic but gave a description and license plate number to investigators.

Twin Girls Weigh In At 9½ Pounds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. George McShea, 36, is proudly showing off twin daughters, each weighing 9 pounds and 7 ounces.

"The doctors tell me it's some kind of record," beamed the mother in her room at Episcopal Hospital.

The twins were born Tuesday. Each was 22½ inches long.

Equal weight and length is unusual in itself, said Dr. Hans Keitel, head of the pediatrics department at the hospital, "but the phenomenal thing is their weight. We just can't find any reports in medical records of babies being this heavy."

Mother and babies are doing fine.

Helmet, Debris Clues To Fate Of Jet Tankers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A helmet stenciled with the name, "Gardner," the last name of one of the 11 men missing aboard two Stratotanker jets, was found Thursday in the Atlantic.

Other debris also was fished out of the water and tentatively identified as part of a KC135, the same type as the two vanished planes.

The Air Rescue Service at Orlando, Fla., which announced the finding of the helmet, said it was not allowed to say whether it belonged to Capt. Gerald Gardner, 28, of Lincoln, Neb.

However, a spokesman said the debris, including the helmet, was the first positive clue to the fate of the two four-engine jets, missing since Wednesday on a classified refueling mission.

Both planes were part of the 19th Bombardment Wing at Homestead AFB, south of Miami.

The debris was retrieved about 360 miles northeast of Miami by the SS Azalea City out of Wilmington, Del. The Azalea City also reported seeing red life jackets in the water late Wednesday.

Turning Point
Unity In Rights Struggle Seen As Result Of March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of the youngest and perhaps most militant civil rights organization said Thursday the massive march on Washington marked a turning point in the civil rights struggle.

John Lewis, 23, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said in an interview that the civil rights groups "are definitely more unified now than before the march. . . . We have reached the point of no return—we can only go forward—and at an accelerated pace."

Another of the march leaders, Bayard Rustin, said there is need for a master plan for civil rights that goes beyond the integration issue. The civil rights revolution will succeed, he said, "only to the degree that we move this country to the left, because there is no room and no other direction to go."

Rustin called for use of civil disobedience methods by the unemployed — both white and Negro—to get the response from national and local governments that the civil rights movement has achieved.

Rustin told a Socialist party conference that the 10-group coalition behind the big demonstration Wednesday already shows "certain tensions," and that its significance will be momentary unless it gains allies among those two who "wield and can manipulate real economic power."

Rustin specifically called for such an alliance with the labor movement.

Little Hope Held For 10 Still In Pit

All-Out Recovery Effort Launched; Eight Known Dead

MOAB, Utah (AP—Five more miners, trapped deep underground for 49 hours in a potash mine were found alive Thursday night and brought to the surface.

Rescuers pressed the search for 10 others imprisoned in the mine.

The five, who were given the best chance all along to be rescued safely, were found in reasonably good condition by fresh recovery teams in one of two lateral tunnels leading off the base of the main 2,710-foot shaft.

The other 10 are in the second tunnel. They have never been heard from since the explosion trapped 25 men at 4:50 p.m. Tuesday.

Little hope is held out for them but two five-man rescue teams, flushed with their success Thursday night, started a maximum recovery effort.

Eight men are known to have died in the blast. The first two survivors, Donald Hanna and Paul McKinney, were brought up Tuesday morning. They left their hospital beds Thursday morning, returned to the mine, and pleaded for a chance to join in the rescue for the five.

"We know where those guys are," Hanna had said to McKinney.

But they weren't allowed to go down.

Makeshift Barricades

The five men rescued Thursday night apparently saved themselves with a makeshift barricade and a cheesecloth curtain they erected to keep out deadly gases.

The five emerged from the mine looking haggard and stunned. Hanna and McKinney said they knew the five had survived the initial blast and could be found alive.

They were located about 3,000 feet underground. They are Charles Clark and Grant Eslick of Moab, Utah; Charles Byrge and Robert June of Helper, Utah, and Thomas Trueman of Toronto, Ont.

They were brought up the 2,712-foot shaft after an agonizing 15-minute trip in a bucket.

As they emerged, cheers rose from a crowd of about 150 rescuers, relatives and newsmen.

The men looked stunned from their ordeal underground.

But as they were being put in waiting ambulances, several smiled wanly and waved, looks of great relief on their faces. The ambulances roared off immediately toward the hospital in Moab, 23 miles away.

There were smiles from some relatives at the mouth of the shaft after the survivors names were announced. From others there were low sobs.

Ventilation System Repaired

Rescue operations resumed immediately for the other 10 men still in the shaft.

The rescue was stopped early Thursday morning when trouble developed with air lines needed by rescue workers. It took almost all day to repair them.

The final 75 feet of a 150-foot ventilation line, damaged by the blast, was patched shortly after 3 p.m. Twenty minutes later, a crew of rescue workers went down in a lift bucket elevator device to test the air supply and telephone system.

Hanna and McKinney criticized certain phases of the rescue effort and blamed the state for "a lack of inspection" at the mine.

In Washington, a federal investigation of the disaster was ordered by John M. Kelly, assistant secretary of the interior for mineral resources.

Earlier in the morning, Hanna and McKinney were interviewed in the hospital room they share. They criticized "the lack of a safety program" at the mine and said expansion of the fresh air base at the bottom of the shaft Thursday—the operation that delayed the rescue—was "something we told them they should have done a long time ago."

Three East Germans Steal Boat, Escape

West German border authorities said the students reached the West German coast safely before dawn Thursday after evading East German gunboats attempting to intercept them.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Military and government spokesmen conditionally forecast Thursday an end to the martial law gripping South Viet Nam.

"If conditions continue as they are now, martial law may be lifted within a few days," said an official high in President Ngo Dinh Diem's administration.

The military governor of Saigon, Brig. Gen. Ton That Dinh, addressed a news conference on the same topic.

Dinh said martial law will be lifted as soon as there is solid evidence the Buddhist crisis is over—and this will demand cooperation of the foreign press. The general did not elaborate, but implied he wanted an end to news stories critical of Diem's regime.

The best available information here is that reports which build up the idea of palace power struggles, clashes between military and civil leaders and so forth do not accurately reflect the situation.

Diem and his adviser-brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, head of the secret police, seem to be to each other what they have always been. Military generals are hand-picked and have always followed orders. Communiques from the generals can be regarded as the same thing as communiques from the presidential palace.

There is no sign of the organization of any movement or group which is capable of overthrowing the government—except possibly the Communist Viet Cong.

Vu Van Mau, who submitted his resignation as foreign minister in protest against the wholesale raids on pagodas and the round-up of Buddhist monks and nuns Aug. 21, departed by plane with his wife and three daughters on a Buddhist pilgrimage to India.

Cuba Bolsters Northern Coast, Alerts Militia

HAVANA (AP)—The Castro government has alerted its militia forces and moved large concentrations of artillery and antiaircraft batteries to the northern coast of Cuba, it was learned Thursday night.

The military moves coincided with widespread reports of a possible new invasion threat by anti-Castro forces. The military was understood to be watching particularly for any attack from Nicaragua or other Central American bases.

The militia alert has been in effect for three days, informants said.

There was no evidence of alarm in Havana, but tight security measures were reported outside the capital.

The Cuban command apparently braced for a repetition of hit-and-run raids reported two weeks ago along the northern coast. Many oil refineries and factories are located there.

The Castro government said those raids proved there was a new plan of aggression against Cuba and declared at the time that the country would take new measures to assure its defense. Troops were deployed along the northern coast.

After raiders were reported to have shelled and machinegunned a metal plant Aug. 19, the government issued a communique accusing the United States of direct responsibility for the attack.

Foreign Aid Director Criticizes House Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign Aid Director David E. Bell predicted Thursday that Russia and Red China will step up their campaign to dominate underdeveloped areas once the limited test ban treaty takes effect.

Bell made this forecast at a news conference in which he sharply criticized in detail last Friday's House action chopping the Kennedy administration's revised foreign aid program by $585 million — down to $3.5 billion.

If sustained by the Senate, he said, the slash would deliver "a severe setback to U.S. efforts to . . . defeat the Communist thrust around the world."

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (AP) — Julius Edgar Lilienfeld, 81, a physicist whose experiments helped perfect the modern X-ray tube, died here Wednesday.

Students Home, Stage Sitdown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fifty American students who toured Cuba for eight weeks as guests of Premier Fidel Castro returned to the United States Thursday night and 45 of them staged a sitdown demonstration at the airport because State Department officials tried to stamp their passports invalid.

The sitdown demonstration lasted two hours and 40 minutes—until federal officials agreed no stamp would be placed on the passports. The students, however, were given letters from the State Department informing them their passport privileges had been "tentatively withheld."

The students had been warned they faced government sanctions when they returned because they violated a State Department travel restriction to Cuba. They could face penalties of as much as five years in prison and $5,000 fine.

William T. McConerty Jr., officer in charge of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Office, said that the students agreed to end their demonstration after they were assured their passports would be stamped with nothing more than a stamp indicating they had re-entered the country.

Water Deposit Fails To Deter Bova Rescuers

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Rescuers, driving without letup to determine the fate of trapped Louis Bova, ran into another of nature's snags Thursday—a water deposit—but they said it was not a serious setback to their efforts.

The water was encountered in the 12-inch hole and a companion six-inch shaft, but the experts could not quickly ascertain its depth.

A light rain fell during the day, the first since Aug. 17, four days after Bova, 54, was trapped in a nearby Sheppton coal mine along with—but separated from—David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 28.

In the intervening time — the 17th day from the cave-in at 9 a.m. Aug. 13—Bova has been without food, and presumed to have subsisted on brackish water. He was last heard from, by report of the other two, on Aug. 19.

The water was detected Thursday by dropping pebbles down the shafts, the sounds of their splashing then being picked up by ultrasensitive microphones.

Authorities said the water would in no way deter the rescue attempts, which are being intensified by way of four holes, the one 12 inches in diameter, another 6½ inches across, and the other 3 inches wide. The two larger holes have been bored into the burrow where it is believed Bova was trapped.

Early Thursday a microphone on an intercom system was lowered the more than 300 feet into the chamber, and for hours rescuers shouted down, "Lou! Lou! Hello there, Lou!"

They met only a hollow silence.

Crews started enlarging the 12-inch escape hole early Thursday. Supervisors said this work may take two days to complete. When this hole is reamed out to desired diameter a man — strictly a volunteer—may be lowered to the chamber to look for Bova.

Twin Girls Weigh In At 9½ Pounds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. George McShea, 36, is proudly showing off twin daughters, each weighing 9 pounds and 7 ounces.

"The doctors tell me it's some kind of record," beamed the mother in her room at Episcopal Hospital.

The twins were born Tuesday. Each was 22½ inches long.

Equal weight and length is unusual in itself, said Dr. Hans Keitel, head of the pediatrics department at the hospital, "but the phenomenal thing is their weight. We just can't find any reports in medical records of babies being this heavy."

Mother and babies are doing fine.

Helmet, Debris Clues To Fate Of Jet Tankers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A helmet stenciled with the name, "Gardner," the last name of one of the 11 men missing aboard two Stratotanker jets, was found Thursday in the Atlantic.

Other debris also was fished out of the water and tentatively identified as part of a KC135, the same type as the two vanished planes.

The Air Rescue Service at Orlando, Fla., which announced the finding of the helmet, said it was not allowed to say whether it belonged to Capt. Gerald Gardner, 28, of Lincoln, Neb.

However, a spokesman said the debris, including the helmet, was the first positive clue to the fate of the two four-engine jets, missing since Wednesday on a classified refueling mission.

Both planes were part of the 19th Bombardment Wing at Homestead AFB, south of Miami.

The debris was retrieved about 360 miles northeast of Miami by the SS Azalea City out of Wilmington, Del. The Azalea City also reported seeing red life jackets in the water late Wednesday.

Smoke-Bomb Holdup

Ohioan Held For Robbing Baltimore Bank Branch

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 47-year-old Canton, Ohio, man was being held in lieu of $25,000 bond tonight for the smoke-bomb robbery of a branch bank today.

The suspect, who was charged after he was apprehended by State Police on the Baltimore Beltway, was identified as Joseph Vernon Bickar of Canton.

The bespectacled bandit robbed a bank branch in a shopping center of more than $6,800, then exploded a smoke bomb to discourage pursuers.

But about four hours later a Maryland State trooper arrested a motorist who police said admitted being the bandit. Police said an undetermined amount of money was found in the car.

The bank was held up at 11:01 a.m. The arrest was made shortly after 3 p.m.

Witnesses said the man — wearing a hat, glasses and a transparent raincoat — displayed no gun during the robbery of the Equitable Trust Co. branch in the Westview Shopping Center, on Baltimore's west outskirts.

Mrs. Nancy Whetzel, 31, a teller, said the man walked to her window demanded that she put money into a bag.

"Are you kidding?" she asked.

"No, I'm not," he replied. "I have a hand grenade here.

She gathered up loose bills and stuffed them into a canvas bag from her drawer.

Fred Bossi, a customer, said the bandit dropped the smoke bomb, a canister the size of a tomato can, as he left.

"We heard an explosion and white smoke came from the floor," said Bossi.

Bossi said he followed the bandit out of the bank, saw him get into an automobile and, accompanied by a bank official, hopped into his own car and gave chase.

They lost the getaway car in highway traffic but gave a description and license plate number to investigators.

Geneva Disarmament Sessions Recessed

GENEVA (UPI) — The 17-nation disarmament conference Thursday recessed for about two months to await the outcome of disarmament discussions in the United Nations General Assembly.

Neutral and Communist delegates were optimistic that further East-West agreements would follow those establishing a "hot line" communications link between Washington and Moscow and banning nuclear tests in the air and under-water.

Turning Point

Unity In Rights Struggle Seen As Result Of March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of the youngest and perhaps most militant civil rights organization said Thursday the massive march on Washington marked a turning point in the civil rights struggle.

John Lewis, 23, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said in an interview that the civil rights groups "are definitely more unified now than before the march. . . . We have reached the point of no return—we can only go forward—and at an accelerated pace."

Another of the march leaders, Bayard Rustin, said there is need for a master plan for civil rights that goes beyond the integration issue. The civil rights revolution will succeed, he said, "only to the degree that we move this country to the left, because there is no room and no other direction to go."

Rustin called for use of civil disobedience methods by the unemployed — both white and Negro—to get the response from national and local governments that the civil rights movement has achieved.

Rustin told a Socialist party conference that the 10-group coalition behind the big demonstration Wednesday already shows "certain tensions," and that its significance will be momentary unless it gains allies among those two who "wield and can manipulate real economic power."

Rustin specifically called for such an alliance with the labor movement.

Judge Remains In Exile After Pro-Negro Rulings

Retired Jurist, 83, Recalls Ostracism In Charleston, S.C.

OSTRACIZED— Retired Federal Judge Waties Waring is shown during interview in his New York City apartment where he has lived for the 11 years since he left his native Charleston, S. C. Waring, a 10th generation member of southern aristocracy, says he was ostracized from the city because of a series of pro-Negro legal decisions. "After my racial decisions, it got very lonely," he says. (AP Photofax)

NEW YORK (AP) — Before the bench of U.S. Dist. Judge J Waties Waring of South Carolina, the Negro won some of his first civil rights victories after World War II.

And Waring paid for it—in exile.

A 10th-generation member of the Southern aristocracy, the judge was ostracized in his native Charleston. He retired and moved to New York 11 years ago, seeking freedom from "narrow provincialism." He has been back only once, then briefly.

"My ostracism was total," he recalled. "After my racial cases, it got very lonely."

Now 83 and determined to live out his life in self-exile, the judge resides with his invalid wife in a quiet neighborhood of gracious apartment houses and foreign embassies, on New York's fashionable East Side just off Central Park.

If he regrets his actions, he did not show it during an interview, beyond a faint trace of nostalgia when he discussed the charm of old Charleston.

As he discussed the background of his ostracism, Waring still seemed a bit puzzled by the intensity of the local reaction.

Citing case after case of legal precedent for his racial cases, and deliberately slapping his knee for emphasis after each, he said, "I think anybody should have seen the coming of this. How could you fail to see the storm coming with cases of that kind, with the flags flying?"

Divorced from his first wife, Annie S. Gammell of Charleston, the judge married Elizabeth Avery Hoffman of Detroit in 1945, three years after taking the bench.

Waring said his ruling that Negro teachers should be paid the same as white teachers attracted little attention—"that was only a matter of money." The deep social cut followed when he opened the Democratic party primaries to Negro voters—this is where elections are won in the South.

His decision brought 35,000 South Carolina Negroes to the polls in the Democratic primary election of 1948.

In his last racial case before retiring, selling his home and moving to New York in February 1952, Waring dissented from a three-judge panel's ruling which upheld separate-but-equal schools in Clarendon County, S.C. The case ultimately went to the Supreme Court and became one of the five in the 1954 school desegregation decision. That upset the separate-but-equal idea.

"We left with no regrets whatever," Waring said upon arrival here.

White Students Fail To Boycott Virginia School

POWHATAN, Va. (UPI) —More than half of Powhatan County's white pupils who attended public schools last year turned up Thursday at a newly integrated school which they had been expected to boycott.

The formerly all-white Powhatan school, only white school in the county, was desegregated quietly during the morning. School officials said the total attendance was 409, including more than a dozen Negroes.

The white school had an enrollment of 711 students last year, but because of a federal integration order many of the whites were expected to enter a private, segregated school, the Huguenot Academy, which opens Sept. 5.

It was not known how many more whites might turn up at the school. A source close to school officials told reporters some parents apparently were afraid to send their children to classes on opening day because of possible troubles.

Powhatan County, largely a rural area, is situated about 30 miles southwest of Richmond.

At Danville, Va., Thursday about 25 anti-segregation demonstrators were arrested when they marched into the downtown area. The demonstrators appeared in two groups. One carried placards and the other sang "freedom" songs.

A flurry of bottle cap and rock-throwing occurred between white and Negro children at a movie theater in Smithfield, N.C., during a free matinee. Stitches were required to close wounds suffered by several of the children. Police said the trouble quickly subsided when lights were turned on in the movie house.

Traffic Fatalities In July Set Record

CHICAGO (UPI) — Traffic deaths mounted to record highs in July, the National Safety Council said Thursday.

Both the July fatalities on the highways and the total for the first seven months of the year exceeded records set in 1962.

Traffic deaths from Jan. 1 through July 31 totaled 22,930.

The council recorded 3,940 traffic deaths in July, a 2 per cent increase over the former record July toll of 3,860 set in 1962.

Mother, Three Sons Smother 'Brute' Father

EL MONTE, Calif. (UPI) —A 37-year-old mother, accused of killing her husband with the help of her three teen-age sons in a family murder plot, will be arraigned Friday along with her eldest boy.

Sheriff's homicide detectives said Mrs. Elsie Farley and her oldest son, Shelby Jr., 18, will be arraigned in Municipal Court on murder charges for the slaying of the boys' father, Shelby Farley Sr., 42, in the family home in nearby La Puente Tuesday night.

The two younger sons, Donald, 17, and John, 13, were in the custody of juvenile authorities.

Detectives said the family admitted killing the father, a railroad switchman, because "he had been a brute for 12 years." Officers also described the victim as a "belligerent brute husband."

The mother and her sons beat the father, smothered him and then held him below water in a bathtub until he ceased to struggle, detectives said.

"I was afraid of him and so were the children," Mrs. Farley told officers. She said her husband often beat her and had harassed the family for 12 years.

The woman told officers she and the boys made plans to retaliate the next time Farley lost his temper and beat her. The "next time" was Tuesday night.

Fellin Charge Is Criticized

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Some rescue leaders were critical Thursday of David Fellin's statement that he thought he and Henry Throne, 28, should have been rescued in five days instead of 14.

Fellin, 58, told a news conference Wednesday:

"The fifth day was when I began to think they had forgotten us. When I thought someone had let me down I felt worse. I couldn't hear the drill and I thought we should have been out by then."

Later at the news conference, Fellin said "I am not criticizing any officials."

Clyde Machamer, president of the Independent Mine Workers Association, which did much of the rescue work, made this comment:

"The man should be entirely grateful. I should think, for the tremendous rescue operation that was carried on here. It's sort of a derragatory statement to make on the work done by the rescue workers. I can't comprehend why such a statement was made."

Honest Burglar Clears Suspect

LONDON (AP) — Frank Clarke is long on politeness, middling on honesty, short on grammar and plumb out of freedom—at least for now.

Clarke, 19, stood up in the spectators section of a court hearing a burglary charge against Derek Cooper last week and said to the judge: "Excuse me, sir. It was not him that did it. It was me."

So the judge dismissed the case against Cooper, 21, and ordered Clarke to jail pending trial.

Pakistan, China Sign Air Pact

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — Pakistan Thursday signed an agreement with Communist China that will give Peking its first air outlet in the free world and permit its planes to land at airports to be built or equipped with U.S. aid.

The agreement gives Pakistan International Airlines (PIA) landing rights at Canton and Shanghai and permits Civil Aviation Administration of China (CAAC) airliners to land at Karachi, Lahore, and Dacca in Pakistan.

Pakistan hopes to start service to Tokyo early next year via the China route. China's plans for flights here were not known immediately.

U.S. sources here said the agreement will not halt plans for the $4.3 million airport to be built in Dacca with U.S. funds.

Marine Corps Pilot Killed In Jet Crash

LANSDALE, Pa. (UPI) — A Marine Corps pilot was killed Thursday when his jet plane crashed near here, three minutes after taking off from the Naval Air Station at Willow Grove.

The identity of the pilot was withheld pending notification of net of kin.

A spokesman at Willow Grove said the T33B trainer had left there en route back to Andrews Air Force Base in Washington.

The plane crashed in a field along the Bethlehem Pike, near the Sunmneytown Pike.

U.S. Condemns Murder Of Two Israel Citizens

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States and Britain Thursday introduced a joint resolution in the United Nations Security Council, "condemning the wanton murder of two Israel citizens" last week in a raid on the Syrian - Israeli border.

The resolution was placed before the council one day after U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson called upon the panel to issue the "strongest condemnation" of Syria for the border raid on Aug. 19.

Thursday's resolution said the Israelis were killed at Almagor in Israeli territory, and called attention to evidence obtained by a U.N. investigating team that "an armed group" responsible for the slayings apparently entered Israel from the direction of the Jordan River.

The resolution did not specifically charge that the "armed group" was composed of Syrians, but it said that the Syrian Arab Republic should take notice of the investigating team's report.

The resolution "appealed to the parties (Syria and Israel) to cooperate in the early exchange of prisoners" and to adopt "certain measures to alleviate tension and restore tranquility in the area."

Treasury Claims Tax Cut Will Increase Revenues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury estimated Thursday that despite a tax cut—or possibly because of it—federal tax revenues will rise $20 billion in the next three years.

The projection was based on the assumption that new tax rates on which Congress is now working would stimulate total production and that there would be a significant drop in unemployment by 1966.

The statement, which repeated many of the administration's arguments for a tax cut, was issued after Treasury experts had considered revisions in the tax cut bill made by the House Ways and Means Committee, which is expected to approve the bill next week.

The administration has said a reduction of taxes is needed to stimulate the economy, and that this will result in more jobs, more wages and profits, and therefore more revenue.

Many critics of the proposed $11-billion reduction in individual and corporate tax rates believe the budget should be balanced before any consideration is given to cutting taxes.

In contrast to the projected $20-billion increase in federal revenue in three years, there was a rise of only about $21 billion in the past 10 years—from $64.7 billion in 1953 to $85.5 billion in the year which ended June 30.

The estimate of revenue for the present fiscal year is $88.9 billion and $20 billion above this level would be $108.9 billion. A Treasury spokesman said the 1967 revenue would be about $103.9 billion if there is no tax cut and it is assumed that the economy will grow at the same rate that has prevailed since 1956.

Thus, according to the Treasury's computations, the federal government would be $5 billion ahead with a tax cut considering only the fiscal year 1967. In the meantime, however, the Treasury estimates it would lose $5 billion to $7 billion before increases in general economic activity started to take up the slack.

Sheriff's homicide detectives said Mrs. Elsie Farley and her oldest son, Shelby Jr., 18, will be arraigned in Municipal Court on murder charges for the slaying of the boys' father, Shelby Farley Sr., 42, in the family home in nearby La Puente Tuesday night.

The two younger sons, Donald, 17, and John, 13, were in the custody of juvenile authorities.

Detectives said the family admitted killing the father, a railroad switchman, because "he had been a brute for 12 years." Officers also described the victim as a "belligerent brute husband."

The mother and her sons beat the father, smothered him and then held him below water in a bathtub until he ceased to struggle, detectives said.

"I was afraid of him and so were the children," Mrs. Farley told officers. She said her husband often beat her and had harassed the family for 12 years.

The woman told officers she and the boys made plans to retaliate the next time Farley lost his temper and beat her. The "next time" was Tuesday night.

Honest Burglar Clears Suspect

LONDON (AP) — Frank Clarke is long on politeness, middling on honesty, short on grammar and plumb out of freedom—at least for now.

Clarke, 19, stood up in the spectators section of a court hearing a burglary charge against Derek Cooper last week and said to the judge: "Excuse me, sir. It was not him that did it. It was me."

So the judge dismissed the case against Cooper, 21, and ordered Clarke to jail pending trial.

Pakistan, China Sign Air Pact

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — Pakistan Thursday signed an agreement with Communist China that will give Peking its first air outlet in the free world and permit its planes to land at airports to be built or equipped with U.S. aid.

The agreement gives Pakistan International Airlines (PIA) landing rights at Canton and Shanghai and permits Civil Aviation Administration of China (CAAC) airliners to land at Karachi, Lahore, and Dacca in Pakistan.

Pakistan hopes to start service to Tokyo early next year via the China route. China's plans for flights here were not known immediately.

U.S. sources here said the agreement will not halt plans for the $4.3 million airport to be built in Dacca with U.S. funds.

The identity of the pilot was withheld pending notification of net of kin.

A spokesman at Willow Grove said the T33B trainer had left there en route back to Andrews Air Force Base in Washington.

The plane crashed in a field along the Bethlehem Pike, near the Sunmneytown Pike.

U.S. Condemns Murder Of Two Israel Citizens

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States and Britain Thursday introduced a joint resolution in the United Nations Security Council, "condemning the wanton murder of two Israel citizens" last week in a raid on the Syrian - Israeli border.

The resolution was placed before the council one day after U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson called upon the panel to issue the "strongest condemnation" of Syria for the border raid on Aug. 19.

Thursday's resolution said the Israelis were killed at Almagor in Israeli territory, and called attention to evidence obtained by a U.N. investigating team that "an armed group" responsible for the slayings apparently entered Israel from the direction of the Jordan River.

The resolution did not specifically charge that the "armed group" was composed of Syrians, but it said that the Syrian Arab Republic should take notice of the investigating team's report.

The resolution "appealed to the parties (Syria and Israel) to cooperate in the early exchange of prisoners" and to adopt "certain measures to alleviate tension and restore tranquility in the area."

Treasury Claims Tax Cut Will Increase Revenues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury estimated Thursday that despite a tax cut—or possibly because of it—federal tax revenues will rise $20 billion in the next three years.

The projection was based on the assumption that new tax rates on which Congress is now working would stimulate total production and that there would be a significant drop in unemployment by 1966.

The statement, which repeated many of the administration's arguments for a tax cut, was issued after Treasury experts had considered revisions in the tax cut bill made by the House Ways and Means Committee, which is expected to approve the bill next week.

The administration has said a reduction of taxes is needed to stimulate the economy, and that this will result in more jobs, more wages and profits, and therefore more revenue.

Many critics of the proposed $11-billion reduction in individual and corporate tax rates believe the budget should be balanced before any consideration is given to cutting taxes.

In contrast to the projected $20-billion increase in federal revenue in three years, there was a rise of only about $21 billion in the past 10 years—from $64.7 billion in 1953 to $85.5 billion in the year which ended June 30.

The estimate of revenue for the present fiscal year is $88.9 billion and $20 billion above this level would be $108.9 billion. A Treasury spokesman said the 1967 revenue would be about $103.9 billion if there is no tax cut and it is assumed that the economy will grow at the same rate that has prevailed since 1956.

Thus, according to the Treasury's computations, the federal government would be $5 billion ahead with a tax cut considering only the fiscal year 1967. In the meantime, however, the Treasury estimates it would lose $5 billion to $7 billion before increases in general economic activity started to take up the slack.

Equality Vote Drive Planned At Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Members of the Cambridge First Committee will start a campaign Monday to persuade residents to vote for the equal public accommodations amendment to the city charter.

The program, called Contact-a-Friend, calls for the 31 members of the committee to contact 50 persons each to tell them to vote for the amendment referendum Oct. 1.

As soon as the Contact-a-Friend campaign is completed, the women of the community are scheduled to swing into action.

Mrs. William Baumann, chairman of a subcommittee, said 40 women had already volunteered to conduct a telephone campaign.

The First Committee was organized by city officials to work for the passage of the amendment.

Mrs. Gloria Richardson, chairman of the Cambridge Non-Violent Action committee which spearheaded the integration drive here, said her group would not work to get out the vote.

Mrs. Richardson said she feels Negroes should not have to vote for something which is already their right.

The amendment was part of an agreement negotiated in Washington in return for which the Negroes called off demonstrations.

There are about 4,700 registered voters in Cambridge. About one-third of them live in the Second Ward, the predominantly Negro district.

Col. William Ogletree, commander of the National Guard troops garrisoned here, changed his mind Thursday about allowing the city to have a fireworks display on Labor Day.

He said he considered it in the best interests of Cambridge not to have the display. Ogletree had given permission for the display earlier.

No reason was given for the change, but the fireworks display usually attracts thousands of persons from neighboring communities.

128 Of 200,000 Rights Marchers Stranded In D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only 128 of the more than 200,000 persons who took part in Wednesday's civil rights demonstration stayed overnight in emergency quarters, sponsoring officials reported Thursday.

A spokesman said the 128 were far less than had been expected to use the emergency sleeping facilities set up at American and Catholic universities.

There was no indication as to how many stayed in hotels.

The 128, stranded because they missed a train, plane or bus or for other reasons, were scheduled to return home Thursday.

Police had no reports of any incidents involving the civil rights marchers.

Two Boys Die In Auto Crash

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two teenage boys were fatally injured Thursday when an automobile and a truck collided at the intersection of U.S. 40 and Maryland 144 about seven miles west of here.

Howard County police identified the victims as Kenneth Cookus, 15, of Baltimore and Albert Broseker of Jumpers Hole Road, Anne Arundel County.

They said both were in the automobile. Cookus was pronounced dead at the scene and Broseker died after being taken to St. Agnes Hospital in Baltimore.

The truck driver escaped serious injury, police said.

Maryland News In Brief

EMMITSBURG, Md. (AP) — Saint Joseph College will award an honorary doctor of laws degree Oct. 5 to Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother of President Kennedy.

The college announced the award will be made at an academic convocation at which similar degrees also will be awarded to the Most. Rev. Lawrence J Shehan, Archbishop of Baltimorg, and Miss Sarah Christie, a Saint Joseph graduate now serving as assistant superintendent of schools in New Jersey.

Officials said Mrs. Kennedy will be honored as "a model of loving devotion and dedication to her children and family, reflecting her staunch Catholic faith and heritage."

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — The arrest of two youths charged with helping two prisoners escape from the Wicomico County jail was reported Thursday by county officials.

They said the two were arrested Wednesday in Bridgeville, Del.

One was identified as Earl Whaley, 19, of Bridgeville. The name of the other was withheld by State Police because he is a juvenile.

The two were accused of smuggling hacksaw blades used to saw cell bars in the escape of Cecil Davis, 29, of Dover, Del., and Charles Nutter of Salisbury.

They fled the jail Saturday and were recaptured Sunday. Davis was awaiting trial on a murder charge and Nutter was scheduled for trial on burglary and larceny charges.

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP) — Mrs. Blancia Cottman, a member of the mayor's biracial committee here, and Charles Morgan Jr., have been arrested on trespass charges while attempting to enter a segregated movie theater.

The defendants, both Negro, were released on $103 bond each after the Wednesday night arrests.

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — A 16-year-old Baltimore boy was free in the custody of his parents Thursday after his arrest on disorderly conduct charges during a teen-age demonstration here.

The demonstration was held Wednesday night and, like one the previous night, involved a protest against a midnight curfew for minors.

The curfew, scheduled to take effect Friday night, was imposed by city officials in an attempt to prevent Labor Day disturbances like those which have previously erupted here.

BURLINGTON, N.J. (AP) — James Oakley Ellis, 37, of Baltimore, has been ordered held in $25,000 bail here on charges of passing worthless checks.

At an arraignment Wednssday night before Magistrate Eugene L. Terzanowas told the man had also used the names or Ray R. Murrell and Roland D. Pinckney in opening bank accounts and using fictitious addresses.

Police said federal authorities had sought Ellis in connection with other bad-check cases and that Clarksville, Va. police wanted him in connection with similar offenses.

March Cleanup Job Completed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The park ground between the Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial regained its manicured appearance Thursday after workmen filled more than 100 trash trucks with 400 tons of litter.

District of Columbia and U.S. Park employes toiled through the night to remove paper and other trash strewn by more than 200,000 marchers in Wednesday's civil rights rally.

More than 450 workers started the cleanup at 5 p.m. Wednesday and didn't finish until 9 a.m. Thursday. Most of the litter was placards carried by demonstrators during the historic march.

Negro Joins NLRB

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Howard Jenkins Jr., 48, was sworn in Thursday as the first Negro member of the National Labor Relations Board.

Jenkins began his five - year term by taking the oath of office from Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg.

Communist China could take over Hong Kong anytime, but its $85-90 million sales of food there each year would then be lost.

Assateague Survey Slated

BALTIMORE (AP) — Still another survey on whether Assateague Island should be developed privately or turned into a public park is to be taken this weekend by John A. Leutkemeyer, state treasurer.

Leutkemeyer said Wednesday he would conduct his survey after State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said he took an informal poll of more than 1,000 persons at Ocean City last weekend.

Goldstein reported a vast majority of Marylanders favor public ownership of the island just south of Ocean City. Under a federal plan, the island would be turned into a national park.

"I talked to people on the beach, to hotel owners, to professional people and farmers, to taxpayers all over, and a vast majority are for a combination state and federal Park," Goldstein said.

Goldstein, Leutkemeyer and Gov. Tawes compose the State Board of Public Works, which is scheduled to rule on the fate of Assateague in the near future.

The George Washington Bridge, opened in 1931, is the second longest suspension bridge in the world.

Restaurant Owner Bars Negroes But Denies Bias

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore County restaurant owner has denied that racial discrimination was the reason for his refusing to serve eight busloads of Negroes who apparently were returning from Wednesday's civil rights demonstration in Washington.

James George, operator of the S. & E. Truck Center on U.S. 40 east of here, said his restaurant caters primarily to truck drivers and that he has contracts with the truck companies.

George said he called State Police when about 500 persons arrived at the restaurant Wednesday night. He said he could not handle the large crowd.

State Police said a report would be sent to the State Interracial Commission.

Parren J. Mitchell, executive secretary of the commission said he had not received the report, but that an informal investigation would be held.

The only other incident reported as thousands of demonstrators travelled homeward through Maryland after the Wednesday demonstration involved the stoning of three buses near the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

Police said youngsters broke the windshield of one of the Connecticut-bound buses but all three vehicles continued on their way. Police said the incident was probably not related to the racial demonstration in which 200,000 persons took part. They said similar rock-throwing incidents occur about twice a month on the tunnel approaches.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

An "Office" At Home

When confronted with the sight of a woman digging into her purse for her car keys or lipstick, men are apt to smugly comment on clutter as a feminine characteristic.

But what about in the home? Though you have a place for everything and everything in its place, how well-organized are those places? Are you taxing your memory with too many details?

It is a relatively simple matter to rid yourself of many details that you remember unnecessarily. It's a matter of making one spot in your home an "office." All it takes is a drawer large enough to carry a few file folders and a calendar of the "day-by-day" type.

This drawer may be in the kitchen and the calendar may be placed on the counter above it. It may be a drawer in your bedroom vanity. Or, if you have a desk, naturally that is the logical place.

At most stationery counters you can get a supply of manila folders. Label these according to the way you live and the details of living that you must handle. Typical subjects in most homes are "current bills," "receipts," "taxes," "insurance." If you are an avid reader, one might be "magazines," in which you keep a record of renewal dates. "Projects" might be another heading and so might "vacation ideas." Certainly everyone needs a folder for "correspondence."

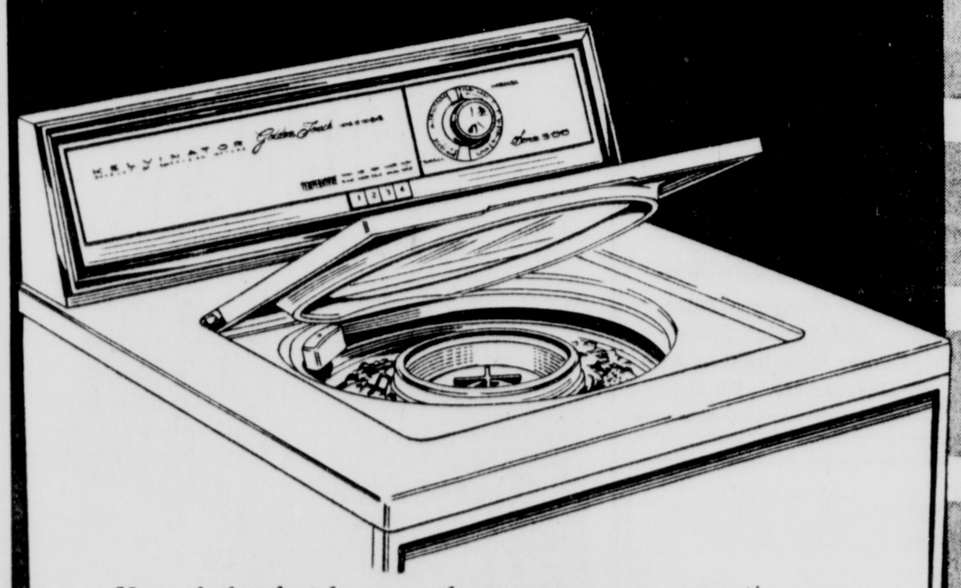

On your calendar, jot down every appointment you make. Also write the due dates on bills, taxes, etc. Jot down all birthdays and anniversaries that you wish to remember. Then—and this is most important — each day, at some time, sit down in your "office" and tearoff the current day, disposing of any duties noted there. At the same time, think of the days just ahead and make additional notations of your plans. If meal planning is one of your tasks, each day's sheet can be used as a menu outline and shopping guide.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

An "Office" At Home

When confronted with the sight of a woman digging into her purse for her car keys or lipstick, men are apt to smugly comment on clutter as a feminine characteristic.

But what about in the home? Though you have a place for everything and everything in its place, how well-organized are those places? Are you taxing your memory with too many details?

It is a relatively simple matter to rid yourself of many details that you remember unnecessarily. It's a matter of making one spot in your home an "office." All it takes is a drawer large enough to carry a few file folders and a calendar of the "day-by-day" type.

This drawer may be in the kitchen and the calendar may be placed on the counter above it. It may be a drawer in your bedroom vanity. Or, if you have a desk, naturally that is the logical place.

At most stationery counters you can get a supply of manila folders. Label these according to the way you live and the details of living that you must handle. Typical subjects in most homes are "current bills," "receipts," "taxes," "insurance." If you are an avid reader, one might be "magazines," in which you keep a record of renewal dates. "Projects" might be another heading and so might "vacation ideas." Certainly everyone needs a folder for "correspondence."

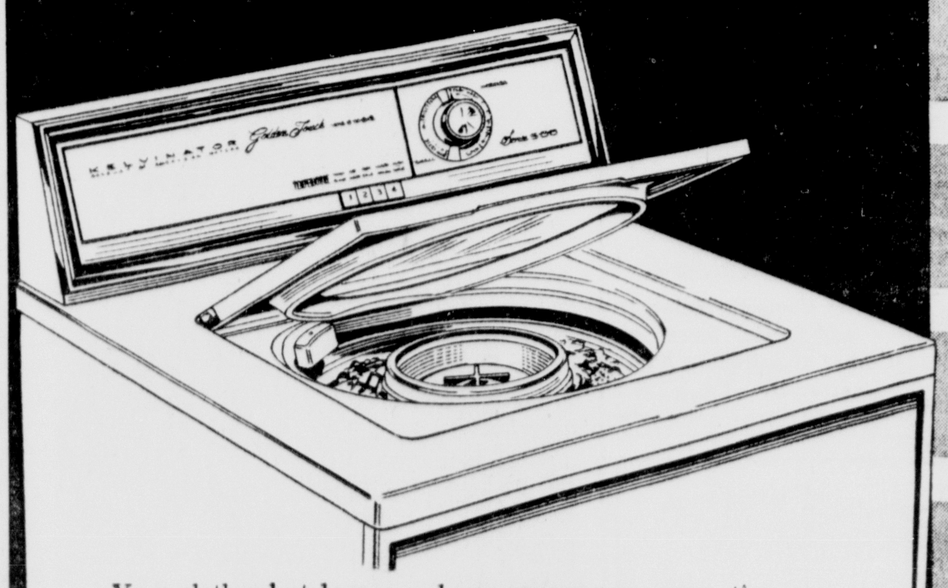

On your calendar, jot down every appointment you make. Also write the due dates on bills, taxes, etc. Jot down all birthdays and anniversaries that you wish to remember. Then—and this is most important — each day, at some time, sit down in your "office" and tearoff the current day, disposing of any duties noted there. At the same time, think of the days just ahead and make additional notations of your plans. If meal planning is one of your tasks, each day's sheet can be used as a menu outline and shopping guide.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 23-year-old daughter was married last spring. She is expecting a baby in November.

Both she and her husband have two more years of college. She is working on her master's degree, he on his Ph. D.

Last week my daughter told me that she and her husband have decided to give up their child for adoption. She says the doctor will handle all the details and she is not going to even see the baby. Her reason for doing this is that both she and her husband want to finish their education and with a baby it would be impossible.

I am horrified and have told her so, but I can't seem to reach her. These are intelligent, decent young people, Ann. They would be wonderful parents. I have offered to take the baby and she said, "No, if we see the baby we would want to keep it."

Please help me persuade her against doing this terrible thing.

—NO WORDS LEFT

DEAR NO WORDS: Your observation that "They would be wonderful parents" is incorrect. The prime requisite for successful parenthood is to want a child. These two "intelligent, decent" people don't qualify.

Of course, it's a dreadful thing they are considering and they will probably regret it later, but this is their decision to make. I earnestly hope—with you, my dear—that they will change their minds, but now that you've let them know how you feel, stay out of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have two teenagers who are driving their father and me crazy. They are above average in intelligence but when we leave them alone for more than 10 minutes they try to kill each other.

The girl is 15 and the boy is 16. To listen to them bicker and pick at each other you'd think they were 5 and 4. If something isn't done about their fighting soon my husband threatens to move to a hotel.

Last night when we came home from a meeting the girl had a bloody nose and the boy showed us a handful of hair that she had pulled out of his head. The mirror in the dining room was cracked. She had thrown something at him and missed.

I've talked to them till I'm blue in the face. I've threatened, begged and punished in every possible way. Nothing helps. My best friend who is a very smart woman says it's natural for a brother and a sister to have disagreements. Please help.

—BATTLE WEARY

DEAR WEARY: It IS natural for a brother and a sister to have disagreements, but your two are trying to kill each other.

Such hostility in the mid-teens is a symptom of deep-seated emotional problems. When a boy and a girl at 15 and 16 are so full of hostility that they must resort to physical violence; it means they both need professional help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That boy who kissed his sweetheart with his eyes open—that was me, 20 years ago. I wasn't even aware I was doing it and I considered it perfectly normal. I don't remember ever seeing anything.

Rather than mention it and make me self-conscious, my brainy wife simply brushed my eyelids with her fingertips. What I believed was a gesture of tenderness was a signal to turn off the headlights.

So please print this letter and give the girl a helping hand. I think my wife's system is infinitely more romantic than saying, "What are you looking at, Bub?" —BLINDED BY LOVE

DEAR BLINDED: I agree — and let's hope she sees this.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

W.Va. Requests Fruit, Berry Research Lab

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate appropriations subcommittee on agriculture and related agencies has been asked by West Virginia Sen. Robert C. Byrd for approval of a $1.2 million land acquisition grant.

The money would cover costs of acquiring lands and building costs for a northeastern regional fruit and berry research laboratory in West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle.

Byrd said officials of the Department of Agriculture agree that such a facility "would substantially aid the farming and related industries of West Virginia and the adjacent Appalachian region."

According to Byrd, the Beltsville, Md., government plant industry station cannot study production, harvesting and marketing problems because "it is not suited climatically, and does not have sufficient acreage of suitable soil for the commercial production of fruits and berries."

Prospects Of Khrushchev Getting Tito Back In Soviet Bloc Are Practically Nil

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev stands a good chance of improving Soviet relations with heretic Yugoslavia during his trip there. But the prospects of getting Marshal Tito back into the Soviet bloc are virtually nil.

The Yugoslav leader appears firmly set on an independent course of non-alignment with power blocs.

Tito's policy of steering clear of involvement has paid high dividends for Yugoslavia. He stands to gain much from its continuation. He has everything to lose if he veers from it.

Yugoslavia has been enjoying the benefits of Western aid, notably American, as a direct result of this strategy. It is likely now to get a sizeable aid offer from Khrushchev.

Moreover, Tito has managed to win for himself a leading role in the international scene as one of the top leaders of the camp of neutral and non-aligned nations.

Two years ago this effort was spotlighted when Yugoslavia played host to the heads of state of 20 neutral and unaligned nations who gathered in Belgrade for a summit conference, with Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru among the participants.

Tito himself recently indicated to both Washington and Moscow that this independence will continue. In a major policy speech before the party's central committee, he stated that Yugoslavia must not change her policy of non-alignment.

The president made it clear on this occasion that Yugoslavia wants a further improvement in relations with Russia and the east European satellites. But at the same time he left little doubt also that he does not want to weaken relations with the west which have proved of considerable advantage to Belgrade.

Khrushchev's wooing of Yugoslavia, which began in 1955, has gradually removed many of the differences between Moscow and Belgrade, and his present visit probably will aim at a further smoothing of relations.

Tito has been backing solidly Khrushchev's policy of peaceful co-existence, which is fully in line with his own desire to keep in well with both worlds—the Communist East and the capitalist West. In turn, Khrushchev may now be out for a formula which would legalize ideological collaboration between Moscow and "revisionist" Yugoslavia.

1962 Government Cost $149 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal, state and local governments spent $148 billion last year— nearly $800 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

The Census Bureau reported this Wednesday. It said $53 billion went for national defense and international relations.

All levels of government collected $123,500,000,000 in taxes during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1962. Other revenue sources pushed up the total income to $168 billion.

Hopkins Professor Presented Award

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Clifford Truesdell, professor of rational mechanics at Johns Hopkins University, has been awarded the Society of Rheology's highest honor, the Bingham Medal.

The award was presented Wednesday at the fourth International Congress on Rheology at Brown University in Providence, R.I.

Truesdell was cited for his "original papers and remarkable articles which . . . have had a profound effect on the development of modern theoretical rheology." Rheology is the study of the flow of matter.

Is it proper to call for Gordon's by name in English Pubs?

It's not a matter of being proper. It's unnecessary. For when most Englishmen ask for gin, they expect to get Gordon's. After all, its distinctive dryness and delicate flavour have been a part of English life for 194 years. Americans, however, have been enjoying Gordon's for a somewhat shorter span of time. So it is wise (and proper) to specify Gordon's by name. Your first sip of a Gordon's martini will tell you why it's the biggest selling gin over here as well as in England and the rest of the world.

Hotel Offers Miners Week's Free Stay

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) —David Fellin and Henry Throne, rescued Pennsylvania miners, and their wives have been offered a week's stay free in the presidential suite of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel here.

The hotel said it was awaiting the fate of Louis Bova, who is still trapped in the mine near Sheppton, Pa.

Prospects Of Khrushchev Getting Tito Back In Soviet Bloc Are Practically Nil

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev stands a good chance of improving Soviet relations with heretic Yugoslavia during his trip there. But the prospects of getting Marshal Tito back into the Soviet bloc are virtually nil.

The Yugoslav leader appears firmly set on an independent course of non-alignment with power blocs.

Tito's policy of steering clear of involvement has paid high dividends for Yugoslavia. He stands to gain much from its continuation. He has everything to lose if he veers from it.

Yugoslavia has been enjoying the benefits of Western aid, notably American, as a direct result of this strategy. It is likely now to get a sizeable aid offer from Khrushchev.

Moreover, Tito has managed to win for himself a leading role in the international scene as one of the top leaders of the camp of neutral and non-aligned nations.

Two years ago this effort was spotlighted when Yugoslavia played host to the heads of state of 20 neutral and unaligned nations who gathered in Belgrade for a summit conference, with Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru among the participants.

Tito himself recently indicated to both Washington and Moscow that this independence will continue. In a major policy speech before the party's central committee, he stated that Yugoslavia must not change her policy of non-alignment.

The president made it clear on this occasion that Yugoslavia wants a further improvement in relations with Russia and the east European satellites. But at the same time he left little doubt also that he does not want to weaken relations with the west which have proved of considerable advantage to Belgrade.

Khrushchev's wooing of Yugoslavia, which began in 1955, has gradually removed many of the differences between Moscow and Belgrade, and his present visit probably will aim at a further smoothing of relations.

Tito has been backing solidly Khrushchev's policy of peaceful co-existence, which is fully in line with his own desire to keep in well with both worlds—the Communist East and the capitalist West. In turn, Khrushchev may now be out for a formula which would legalize ideological collaboration between Moscow and "revisionist" Yugoslavia.

1962 Government Cost $149 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal, state and local governments spent $148 billion last year— nearly $800 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

The Census Bureau reported this Wednesday. It said $53 billion went for national defense and international relations.

All levels of government collected $123,500,000,000 in taxes during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1962. Other revenue sources pushed up the total income to $168 billion.

Education Head Will Begin His Retirement

Harry McDonald, a native of Barton who has spent his life in the teaching field, will begin his retirement Sunday.

McDonald has been supervisor of vocational agriculture for the State Department of Education for 17 years.

Before heading the state's school agriculture program, McDonald taught agriculture and coached football at Newark, Del., and Frederick, and was agriculture teacher and principal at Sparks High School, Baltimore County.

A son of the late John J. and Mary Jane (Miller) McDonald of Barton, he was graduated from Barton High School in the class of 1914.

He received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Maryland, a master of arts degree from Columbia University, and did graduate work at Johns Hopkins University, University of Chicago and University of Wisconsin.

Very active in agricultural education, he is widely known in Maryland for his interest in and services with the Future Farmers of America.

Proof of his leadership ability is shown by his record of being president of numerous groups, including the National Vocational Agriculture Supervisors, Maryland Vocational Association, and the Maryland Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald have two children and six grandchildren. They reside in Towson.

Kingsley McDonald, Woodlawn, LaVale, is a brother.

The site of Syracuse, N. Y., was discovered by Jesuit missionaries more than 300 years ago.

Opening lead: Queen of ◇

Declarer's seemingly double-dummy performance in his four heart contract was based on nothing more mystifying than an accurate count of his opponent's distribution.

West opened the queen of diamonds which was taken by South's ace. A small spade was led from the closed hand, and West went up with his ace in case declarer had a singleton. A small diamond was led to East's king and the continuation was ruffed by South.

A heart was played over to the ace and a small one returned to the ten. When both hands followed, the last trump was drawn with North's jack. The king-queen of spades were cashed and both East and South discarded small clubs.

A club was led from dummy and, when East played the nine, declarer permitted him to hold the trick, following with the seven from his hand as West showed out of the suit. East was down to nothing but clubs and his forced return of the ten was ducked around to North's queen. In all, South lost one spade, one diamond and one club.

After accepting North's plaudits, South was asked to explain his unusual play in clubs. "It was obvious once I counted out West's hand," was his answer. "He showed up with six spades, two hearts, and three diamonds by the time I cashed dummy's last spade. Since West had led the queen of diamonds originally, he rated to have the jack as well which had not yet shown up. He could therefore have at most one club. If it was the king, then it would show up on the first lead of the suit. If not, then I could not make the hand unless East could be thrown into the lead at that point to play a club for me."

Physical Director Of 'Y' Gives Activities Report

The physical department of Central YMCA expects to reach in projected participation goal of 100,000 persons before the end of the year, according to Lynn M. Patchin, physical director.

Patchin said a renewed interest in YMCA activities has posed a problem for space and time. Basic membership groups will be scheduled as usual this year, he said, with activities to be provided for them by the physical department.

Grade school boys and girls will have classes after school throughout the week and on Saturday mornings, Patchin said, at which times Sports, games, stunts, and fitness and aquatic programs will be presented.

Slimnastics for women and young girls will be offered again in the regular program in the morning and evening. Slimnastics will be supplemented, he said, by trampoline, badminton and ball games.

The Health Club also will open during the same time period.

The police-fireman program has been scheduled, and on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 9 a. m., open recreation and basketball will be available.

Again this year, Patchin said, volleyball and basketball leagues will be organized for men. The weight room for men will be available through the day to supplement personal programs. In addition, judo, health club, handball and fitness programs are open to men, Patchin said.

Two new programs will be installed, a co-ed beginner swim class every Saturday at 9 a. m. and a co-ed advanced gymnasium class. Patchin reported that an all-year program in gymnastics and apparatus will be presented to those who qualify on Saturdays at 11:15 a. m.

He added that special interest groups such as handicapped children, Sunday School League, swim teams, and college groups will be on the YMCA schedule once moore.

The Displaced Persons Bill, which sidestepped the national quota system, was passed by the U. S. Congress in 1948. The bill admitted 400,000 refugees.

Enrollment Up At Local College

Registration of new full-time students at Allegany Community College for the fall semester is three times that of the enrollment at the junior college when it opened here in September 1961.

Entering the third year of its existence, the college has 93 new full-time students.

This is compared to 60 freshmen last year, and 30 when the doors first opened in 1961.

The sophomore class, according to Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president, is anticipated to be approximately 50 students, but may go as high as 60 or as low as 40.

Registration will be held on Wednesday, September 11, and Thursday, September 12.

The total of sophomore students and all first-year students will be determined at that time.

Dr. Zimmer said part-time evening students will sign up for classes on these two days as will sophomores.

Those who did not take the entrance examination for first-year students this past summer may register as special students in the freshman class until the tests are given in November.

Something new has been added this year. Orientation day will start on the morning of Monday, September 9, with greetings from the president in the college auditorium and meetings with the various advisors.

At noon, the group will journey to the Miller Farm near Midland for an outing, picnic supper and square dance.

Student nurses from Memorial Hospital School of Nursing are being invited, Dr. Zimmer added.

The sun has a diameter of 864,100 miles and is distant, on the average, 92 million, 900 thousand miles from the earth.

Rain Forces Delay Of Wineow Street Work

Yesterday's rain forced postponement of the blacktopping of Wineow Street, according to officials of the Cumberland Contracting Company, who said the project will depend on weather conditions.

The blacktopping has been tentatively set for today, or in the event of further inclement weather, next Tuesday. The work will start at approximately 9 a. m. either day.

Chief of Police B. F. Gaffney said the subway will be closed to traffic during the work, expected to take between two and three hours.

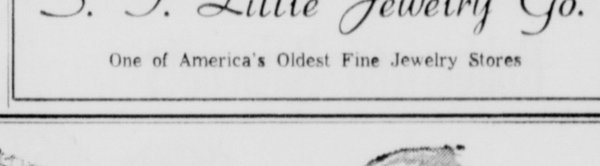

Police will be on hand to handle the resulting detouring of traffic, Chief Gaffney said.

Opening lead: Queen of ◇

Declarer's seemingly double-dummy performance in his four heart contract was based on nothing more mystifying than an accurate count of his opponent's distribution.

West opened the queen of diamonds which was taken by South's ace. A small spade was led from the closed hand, and West went up with his ace in case declarer had a singleton. A small diamond was led to East's king and the continuation was ruffed by South.

A heart was played over to the ace and a small one returned to the ten. When both hands followed, the last trump was drawn with North's jack. The king-queen of spades were cashed and both East and South discarded small clubs.

A club was led from dummy and, when East played the nine, declarer permitted him to hold the trick, following with the seven from his hand as West showed out of the suit. East was down to nothing but clubs and his forced return of the ten was ducked around to North's queen. In all, South lost one spade, one diamond and one club.

After accepting North's plaudits, South was asked to explain his unusual play in clubs. "It was obvious once I counted out West's hand," was his answer. "He showed up with six spades, two hearts, and three diamonds by the time I cashed dummy's last spade. Since West had led the queen of diamonds originally, he rated to have the jack as well which had not yet shown up. He could therefore have at most one club. If it was the king, then it would show up on the first lead of the suit. If not, then I could not make the hand unless East could be thrown into the lead at that point to play a club for me."

Physical Director Of 'Y' Gives Activities Report

The physical department of Central YMCA expects to reach in projected participation goal of 100,000 persons before the end of the year, according to Lynn M. Patchin, physical director.

Patchin said a renewed interest in YMCA activities has posed a problem for space and time. Basic membership groups will be scheduled as usual this year, he said, with activities to be provided for them by the physical department.

Grade school boys and girls will have classes after school throughout the week and on Saturday mornings, Patchin said, at which times Sports, games, stunts, and fitness and aquatic programs will be presented.

Slimnastics for women and young girls will be offered again in the regular program in the morning and evening. Slimnastics will be supplemented, he said, by trampoline, badminton and ball games.

The Health Club also will open during the same time period.

The police-fireman program has been scheduled, and on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 9 a. m., open recreation and basketball will be available.

Again this year, Patchin said, volleyball and basketball leagues will be organized for men. The weight room for men will be available through the day to supplement personal programs. In addition, judo, health club, handball and fitness programs are open to men, Patchin said.

Two new programs will be installed, a co-ed beginner swim class every Saturday at 9 a. m. and a co-ed advanced gymnasium class. Patchin reported that an all-year program in gymnastics and apparatus will be presented to those who qualify on Saturdays at 11:15 a. m.

He added that special interest groups such as handicapped children, Sunday School League, swim teams, and college groups will be on the YMCA schedule once moore.

Minimum Wage Provisions For New Employe Group Will Go Into Effect On Tuesday

A minimum hourly wage of $1 will go into effect Tuesday for a new group of workers under the revisions of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act of 1961.

In 1961, this new category of workers was established and to cushion the burden on employers, the provisions of the amendments were not to take effect until this year.

This new group will have a $1 an hour minimum pay with a 44-hour work week, with all hours over that being paid at the rate of time and one half.

On September 3, 1964, this group will get $1.15 an hour with a 42-hour work week, and September 3, 1965, $1.25 an hour with 40 hours a week.

Those employes covered by the FLSA prior to the 1961 amendments and then having a previous $1 an hour rate were paid $1.15 an hour for the two years from September 3, 1961.

These workers on Tuesday will go to $1.25 an hour with a 40-hour work week.

The new group is comprised of employes in the following enterprises engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce:

1. Any such enterprise which has one or more retail or service establishments and annual gross sales of not less than $1,000,000 (exclusive of specified taxes) and purchases at least $250,000 annually of goods for resale that move or have moved across state lines (except any retail or service establishment of such enterprises which has annual gross sales of less than $250,000.

2. Any such enterprise engaged in the business of construction or reconstruction which has annual gross business of not less than $350,000.

3. Any gasoline service establishment which has annual gross sales of not less than $250,000 (exclusive of specified taxes).

4. Any such enterprise engaged in urban or interurban transit operations which has annual gross sales of not less than $1,000,000.

5. Any establishment in any other enterprise where the business has some employes engaged in, or in the production of goods for interstate or foreign commerce and where the enterprise has annual gross sales of not less than $1,000,000.

6. To certain switchboard operators in public telephone exchanges and employes engaged in certain processing and other operations on seafood and aquatic products.

In Hollywood

(Editors Note: Today's guest columnist, Red Skelton, recalls the time he stole a white piano from a movie studio.)

By RED SKELTON

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Occasionally I pick up and glance through a book or an article dealing with the art of getting ahead in this world, and I've discovered that the authors of all these inspirational tracts are unanimous on one admonition, which is: never look back.

Probably that's good advice, but I've never been able to take it. I'm an incurable looker-backer, and I continue to indulge in this vice even when the result is that I become saddened over the contrast between the efficient, purposeful present and a more careless, carefree era that I can't help thinking of as "the good old days."

There are good and sufficient reasons for it, all of them economic, but the fact is that a lot of the fun we used to have has gone out of my business. Because it is so much tougher to make a buck with such precision and efficiency that there is just not time for clowning around.

All this is probably as it should be, but that can't prevent me from regretting it. I like fun, both on-stage and off, and, I must confess it, I love elaborate practical jokes. Today, however, I can only enjoy them in retrospect. One of my all-time favorites was so upsetting to the operations of a major studio that even I wouldn't think of perpetrating anything like it in this era of super-efficiency.

It was the time, some 20 years ago, when Lou Borzage and I decided to steal something big from the M-G-M Studio, temporarily of course. After casing several of the sound stages, we chose as our quarry a beautiful, white baby grand piano which Jose Iturbi was using in a production.

Lou and I went to a storage warehouse and prevailed upon the people there to rent us a truck and uniforms for ourselves. We drove on the lot one night, speeding past the cop at the gate as I shouted a double-talk identification at him.

Then we drove on the stage where the piano was and found the set was being redressed by a group of workmen. We flashed a phony requisition and asked the workers to help us load the piano on the truck. We even got one of them to sign the requisition, noting that he had checked out the piano. We took off in a cloud of dust, left the policeman at the other gate as flatfooted as we had his colleague and high-tailed it to the warehouse, where the piano was duly put in storage.

To say that consternation reigned on that set the next day would be to put it mildly. The piano was so unique that the sequences showing Iturbi playing it had to be postponed while other scenes of the picture were filmed.

Three days later, when I heard that production would have to stop altogether I innocently called the studio manager and told him I had heard about the theft of the piano and had received a tip from a fence who said he knew where it was.

"Get it back and you can have anything you want from the prop department as a reward," the studio exec promised.

The instrument was returned, and the next day I went to the prop department and elected as my reward a beautiful ivory hand-carved chess set.

That studio manager was no fool. As I was leaving with the chess set, he looked me in the eye and declared, "I'm sure it was you who took the piano but right now I can't prove it. Anyway, it's worth the chess set to get the piano back."

W. Va. Road Bond Issue Under Attack

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Charleston Chamber of Commerce says that "on the basis of facts and figures thus far available," approval of the proposed $200 million dollar road bond issue is not essential to complete West Virginia's Interstate highways on schedule.

The chamber's position was set forth in a detailed analysis of "The Interstate job in West Virginia" in the August issue of the monthly "Kanawha Commerce."

"If, until this time, West Virginia has been able to spend but barely more than half of the Interstate funds allotted to it during the past seven years, there is justifiable reason to doubt whether it can spend double and triple these annual allocations in the seven years remaining, which is assuredly what would have to be done if the Interstate mileage is finished on time by 1972," it said.

"The...question is whether the proposed $200 million road bond issue will, if submitted to the electorate and ratified, in any degree speed up the program, or if it is in any manner essential to the completion of the overall project within the allotted 1972 time limit.

"On the basis of the facts and figures thus far available to the public, the answer must be in the negative."

The chamber said that even if federal allocations for Interstate work reach the $100 million a year level, or 2½ times the largest allocation to date, the state would need only $10 million to match such amounts on the 9-to-1 Interstate basis.

The regular 50-50 federal matching funds needed for federal-state highways could not rise above $19 million under the formula now in use, the article said.

Since the state now realizes about $72 to $75 million a year in road funds from state sources, ample funds are available to meet Interstate and 50-50 matching requirements "and still leave an unprecedented amount available" for state-financed work.

"What the $200 million bond issue would do, if ratified, is to provide the State with that much more money to spend on road projects financed 100 cents on the dollar out of the State's own money.

"This objective could be laudable enough provided that such a stepped up program of road spending of 100 cents on the dollar of the state's own funds were clearly defined and justified on a need's basis.

"This has not been done, at least publicly," the chamber said.

The proposed road bond amendment to the Constitution was approved by the 1963 Legislature and is to be submitted to the voters for ratification at the 1964 general election.

Final Clinic For Children Wednesday

The Allegany County Health Department will hold its final clinic Wednesday for children who will enter the first grade this fall.

The clinic will be held at 1 p.m. at the Health Department in the County Building on Union Street, and parents planning to bring their children to the clinic should call now for appointments.

The Health Department and the Allegany County Board of Education has been conducting a joint project to have all pre-school children obtain physical and dental examinations.

Parents are urged to take their children either to a private physician or attend Wednesday's clinic. The clinics held thus far this summer have been well attended, according to the Health Department.

Ridgeley Fire Carnival Due

Members of the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company and the Volunteer Ambulance Unit of that community will meet Tuesday at 6 p. m. at the fire hall to begin setting up the carnival which will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening next week.

The firemen's meeting on Monday evening has been canceled due to the Labor Day holiday, and they will meet the following evening with the ambulance unit members.

The carnival, which will include concessions and pony rides for the children, will be held on Third Avenue near the fire hall from 6 p. m. to 11 p. m. each day.

A kiddie's parade will be held Saturday beginning at 6 p. m., and a prize will be awarded to the youngster with the best decorated bike.

W. Va. Road Bond Issue Under Attack

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Charleston Chamber of Commerce says that "on the basis of facts and figures thus far available," approval of the proposed $200 million dollar road bond issue is not essential to complete West Virginia's Interstate highways on schedule.

The chamber's position was set forth in a detailed analysis of "The Interstate Job in West Virginia" in the August issue of the monthly "Kanawha Commerce."

"If, until this time, West Virginia has been able to spend but barely more than half of the Interstate funds allotted to it during the past seven years, there is justifiable reason to doubt whether it can spend double and triple these annual allocations in the seven years remaining, which is assuredly what would have to be done if the Interstate mileage is finished on time by 1972," it said.

"The...question is whether the proposed $200 million road bond issue will, if submitted to the electorate and ratified, in any degree speed up the program, or if it is in any manner essential to the completion of the overall project within the allotted 1972 time limit.

"On the basis of the facts and figures thus far available to the public, the answer must be in the negative."

The chamber said that even if federal allocations for Interstate work reach the $100 million a year level, or 2½ times the largest allocation to date, the state would need only $10 million to match such amounts on the 9-to-1 Interstate basis.

The regular 50-50 federal matching funds needed for federal-state highways could not rise above $19 million under the formula now in use, the article said.

Since the state now realizes about $72 to $75 million a year in road funds from state sources, ample funds are available to meet Interstate and 50-50 matching requirements "and still leave an unprecedented amount available" for state-financed work.

"What the $200 million bond issue would do, if ratified, is to provide the State with that much more money to spend on road projects financed 100 cents on the dollar out of the State's own money.

"This objective could be laudable enough provided that such a stepped up program of road spending of 100 cents on the dollar of the state's own funds were clearly defined and justified on a need's basis.

"This has not been done, at least publicly," the chamber said.

The proposed road bond amendment to the Constitution was approved by the 1963 Legislature and is to be submitted to the voters for ratification at the 1964 general election.

Passing Of The Salami Tactician

Matyas Rakosi, ex-dictator of Hungary, died almost unnoticed in a Moscow hospital the other day. His career followed a routine Red path.

But he deserves to be remembered for coining a memorable, frank phrase which sums up the strategy of Communists taking over governments in which they start out as a minority.

He called it "salami tactics," defined it as "demanding a little more each day, like cutting up a salami, thin slice after thin slice." He was describing how he took over Hungary after World War II by gradually whittling Cabinet ministers down to size.

Once in power, Communists use a cleaver. Thus in 1949, at Stalin's request, Rakosi put Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk on trial for treason and frightened or drugged him into abject public confession and a plea that he deserved to be hanged. Rakosi obliged.

In 1956, Rajk was "rehabilitated" and Rakosi was fired as dictator. But he remained on the high level of Politbureau member. Rajk's rehabilitation left him on a much lower level—the grave. A year ago Rakosi was fired from Politbureau and party "for absolute political responsibility for miscarriages of justice based on forged evidence."

The salami slicer and hatchet man was belatedly cut down, but his life was spared. He had after all done yeoman service for the cause. But the phrase he coined lives on, a timeless warning.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

World Of Mao Tse-Tung

To Americans, it is rather obvious that the Negroes' push for protection of their rights under the Fourteenth Amendment is part and parcel of the aspiration of a people for acceptance as members of the great U.S. middle class. The Negro wants to be like everybody else, a person who can own property, speak as he wishes, be served a cup of coffee anywhere without encountering animosity, and get a job without reference to matters of pigmentation.

To certain areas of the outer world, however, the surge of the Negroes has "proletarian" overtones. This delusion has had its most pronounced effect in Red China, where, according to a report printed in the weekly bulletin put out by the Taiwan Chinese in New York City, the Mao Tse-tung government has "set up a special agency for the purpose of promoting racial strife in the United States and elsewhere." Mao evidently takes his "leadership of the world's colored people" with great seriousness for he has put his new agency under the direction of three extremely influential Red Chinese Pooh-bahs. They are Liu Ning-i, chairman of the Communist All China Federation of Trade Unions, Liu Chang-sheng, president of the Red China-Africa Friendship Association, and Liao Cheng-chi, chairman of the Overseas Chinese Affairs Commission.

"The speedy development of the struggle of American Negroes," said Mao in a 1,000-word statement accompanying the announcement of the creation of the new "racial strife" unit, "is a manifestation of the sharpening class struggle and national struggles within the United States. . . . I call upon the workers, peasants, revolutionary intellectuals . . . to unite against the racial discrimination practiced by U.S. imperialism and to support the American Negroes in their struggle against racial discrimination." As for the Kennedy civil rights program, it is, to Mao, "two-faced tactics . . . an attempt to lull the fighting will of the Negro people and to deceive the masses throughout the country." Mao is not against accepting help from "enlightened" whites, but Kennedy, to him, is not enlightened.

Mao's statement was issued ostensibly at the request of Robert F. Williams, a North Carolina Negro who, according to the Taiwan Chinese news bulletin, "has sought refuge in Cuba." Since many of Cuba's Negroes are risking their lives daily to escape from Fidel Castro's paradise, Mr. Williams's choice of abode can hardly be taken as a true expression of his race's opinion or its will.

What impresses one chiefly about Mao Tse-tung's reaction to the American Negroes' demands is its archaic flavor. The Red Chinese dictator sees the world through the spectacles of forty years ago. Those were the days when our Lothrop Stoddards and our Madison Grants were writing books that bore such titles as "The Rising Tide of Color" and "The Passing of the Great Race." In fighting a war against the "Nordic" supremacist, Hitler, however, Americans rather lost their taste for books that envisioned the future as a great war of the races. Even the European and American Communists, though they manifestly continue to fish in the troubled waters of local racial demonstrations for "rights," gave up on the apocalyptic ideas that Mao Tse-tung is now embracing. A generation ago the European and American Communists were calling for "self-determination of the American black belt." But when it became clear to them that only the Black Muslims want "self-determination" in a "belt" of their own, the European and American Communists decided to make a right-about-face and return to the world of reality.

Mao's decision to try to make the world a racial shambles ignores the whole underlying motive of the American Negro organizations that are behind the current drives for "equality." The Negro wants to be "integrated" in a social context that is entirely middle class. He wants to be able to live in a suburb, to have a refrigerator and a television set in a house that is financed under conventional mortgage arrangements, and to drive a Detroit-made car to a non-discriminatory beach. He wants conventional schooling of a type that will enable him to hold down a job with a capitalistic corporation.

Maybe the Negro, in pushing for Federal help in getting his desires in states that are slow to respond, is straining the U.S. Constitution, which left the protection of civil liberties to local authorities under the Tenth Amendment. But whatever the Constitutional aspects of the struggle may be, the Negro wants to rise in the American world, not fall. He is not interested in being a "proletarian"; he wants to be right up there with the middle class Joneses.

On The Way To The Palace

Bulgarian Premier Tells Pearson Only U.S., Russia Can Keep Peace

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson, the first Western newsman to interview the Premier of Bulgaria, today gives the details of his talk.)

VARNA, Bulgaria — My interview with Premier Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria took place at a tea table in a shady spot on the palace lawn of the former kings of Bulgaria. Tea in Bulgaria is almost a banquet. It consisted of caviar, two kinds of sausage, two kinds of cheese, nuts, ice cream, and coffee. Premier Zhivkov sat relaxed in shirtsleeves and no necktie.

I told him that I had once learned his language from a Bulgarian corporal named Zhivkov, one of 100 Bulgarian prisoners allotted to a unit of the American Friends Service Committee after World War I to rebuild Yugoslav villages burned down by the Bulgars.

After saying this, I almost wished I hadn't, because relations between Yugoslavia and Bulgaria over the years have been very bitter. However, the Prime Minister passed the matter off pleasantly. He said Zhivkov was about as common a name in the Balkans as Smith in America.

Perhaps the most important question we discovered was whether Red China was likely to start a war, in view of its opposition to co-existence between the United States and Russia. I knew that until about a year ago Bulgaria was still in the Stalinist camp and leaned toward Red China.

"I am not worried about China for two reasons," Zhivkov replied. "First, it took twenty years for the United States to perfect the atom bomb and China is not going to get nuclear weapons easily. Second, world opinion against China would be too strong."

"Now that President Kennedy and Khrushchev have agreed to a test ban treaty," I asked, "what should be the next step in improving relations between the United States and Russia?"

"Disarmament," Premier Zhivkov replied without hesitation. "Even if there is only partial disarmament, it will be an important step. We have to begin."

Serious Tea Party

"The small nations like Bulgaria don't count when it comes to preventing war," he said. "But you and Russia have the power within yourselves to keep the peace. If you stand together, I am not worried.

"Bulgaria can't start a war but we are concerned about war. We have been through too many of them. I asked our scientists the other day to give me a report on the results of nuclear war and they reported that it would take 1,800 years to decontaminate the earth after such a war.

"Pardon me for talking so seriously at a tea party," said Zhivkov, pouring another cup of coffee — not tea — "but these are things we all have to worry about.

"No one can win a nuclear war," he continued, "if the socialist countries throw the first bomb, we'll reap the same kind of destruction you will reap. And if you throw the first bomb, you will suffer just as much as we do.

"So we hope relations between us will improve. If they are left to us, this will be."

I asked the Bulgarian Prime Minister what he thought of the current Soviet policy of co-existence and how it jibed with Khrushchev's one-time statement that he would bury us.

"When Khrushchev said he would bury you," replied Zhivkov, "he was speaking in a rhetorical sense. He didn't mean war. This statement was greatly misinterpreted. The fact is that we know we can't change you from being capitalists and we don't want to. And you know that you can't change us from being Communists."

Women In Bulgaria

Mrs. Pearson told the Prime Minister that we had watched a woman boss a gang of Bulgarian men in laying a macadam pavement on the docks that morning.

She seemed to be getting the job done faster than men," Mrs. P. remarked. "Does this kind of work by women happen in Bulgaria often?"

I protested that the question was unfair to men, but Zhivkov gave a lengthy reply on the advancemen of women in the new Bulgaria. He also paid tribute to Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, the U. S. Minister to Bulgaria, but commented:

"When it comes to improving relations between the United States and Bulgaria, Mrs. Anderson is always preaching cultural exchange. That's all right, but why not get down to brass tacks? The real way to improve relations is through trade and political relations. Of course," he added, "Mrs. Anderson is acting under orders from the State Department."

The conversation under the trees on the shore of the Black Sea touched many other questions, ranging from religion, regarding which Zhivkov said his mother was a devout believer, to Balkan friction, regarding which he said that the ticklish Macedonian problem had now been settled by putting the Macedonians under Yugoslavia as a republic. This, for a Bulgarian, was a very important concession.

Finally I asked whether other Bulgarians could be counted on to follow a policy of peaceful co-existence.

"Only five per cent of the people in the Bulgarian government are of my age," replied Zhivkov, who is 52. "The others are younger. And they are unequivocally for peace."

Did Lincoln Believe In White, Negro Equality?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—They stand before the shrine of Abraham Lincoln—before the impressive edifice which memorializes a great man. But do all those who assembled this week before the massive statue of the country lawyer who became President of the United States know what he really said about the race problem? Would the Negro leaders of today venture to quote what Lincoln actually said in his public speeches more than 100 years ago?

Is it generally realized, for instance, that Lincoln didn't favor the social equality of Negroes and whites and frankly stated that he didn't believe this should be established by law or otherwise? Also, would what Lincoln had to say about the legitimacy of "resisting" court decisions be approved today by the members of the American Bar Association who voted recently for a resolution condemning the effort of certain groups to correct by legal methods rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States considered to be unjust and arbitrary?

Yet it's all in a book published in 1958 by the Library of Congress, giving the stenographic records of speeches made by Abraham Lincoln in his famous debates with Stephen A. Douglas. Lincoln denounced slavery, and then explained his position on the race problem generally as he said:

"I have no purpose to introduce political and social equality between the white and the black races. There is a physical difference between the two, which in my judgment will probably forever forbid their living together upon the footing of perfect equality, and inasmuch as it becomes a necessity that there must be a difference, I, as well as Judge Douglas, am in favor of the race to which I belong having the superior position.

"I have never said anything to the contrary, but I hold that he is as much entitled to these as the white man. I agree with Judge Douglas, he is not my equal in many respects — certainly not in color, perhaps not in moral or intellectual endowment. But in the right to eat the bread, without leave of anybody else, which his own hand earns, he is my equal and the equal of Judge Douglas, and the equal of every living man. . . .

"What next? Free them and make them politically and socially our equals? My own feelings will not admit of this; and if mine would, we well know that those of the great mass of white people will not. Whether this feeling accords with justice and sound judgment is not the sole question, if, indeed it is any part of it. A universal feeling, whether well or ill-founded, cannot be safely disregarded. We cannot, then, make them equals."

In another speech in 1858 Lincoln said:

"I will say then that I am not, nor ever have been in favor of bringing about in any way the social and political equality of the white and black races — that I am not nor ever have been in favor of making voters or jurors of Negroes, nor of qualifying them to hold office, nor to intermarry with white people; and I will say in addition to this that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which I believe will forever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality. And inasmuch as they cannot so live, while they do remain together there must be the position of superior and inferior, and I as much as any other man am in favor of having the superior position assigned to the white race. . . .

"I will add to this that I have never seen to my knowledge a man, woman or child who was in favor of producing a perfect equality, social and political, between Negroes and white men."

The same year Lincoln bitterly criticized the Supreme Court for its decision in the Dred Scott case upholding slavery as a property right. He said of the decision:

"We propose so resisting it as to have it reversed if we can, and a new judicial rule established upon this subject."

Lincoln in another speech quoted with approval a letter from Thomas Jefferson, written in 1820, which declared that, if the judges of the Supreme Court are to be considered as "the ultimate arbiters of all constitutional questions," this could be a "very dangerous doctrine indeed and one which would place us under the despotism of an oligarchy."

So, irrespective of the homage paid to Abraham Lincoln this week for a particular purpose, there are plenty of quotations which, if uttered by anyone else today, would cause many whites and Negroes to denounce such a spokesman as a "racist" or "extremist." Yet the fact is that many people who want to see the Negro given every opportunity to advance in the economic field and enjoy the political privileges and benefits of life probably share the historic views of Abraham Lincoln.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ECONOMY — Federal government employes have been ordered to travel tourist class when possible in using commercial airlines for business trips.

Recently, the deputy undersecretary of the Army, Howard E. Haugerud, with three of his aides, flew to Dallas for a meeting. As one rather broad-beamed officer squeezed himself into one of the narrow seats, the usual amount of derogatory remarks flew around concerning the economy order.

Haugerud interrupted the biting gaiety when he said to his colleagues, "If you will look across the aisle, gentlemen, you may be no more comfortable, but you will feel better."

Sitting across from them, in the same economy section, were Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, jammed into the same narrow seats.

A BELT BUCKLE — The belt buckle has become the symbol of the frustrations of Armed Forces unification at the Pentagon. And so far, the advocates of apartness are out in front.

When Robert S. McNamara became secretary of Defense, he pledged to achieve a greater degree of unification among the services as a means of saving money and increasing efficiency.

McNamara has had inter-agency committees working on the project ever since, and deadlines have passed. But so far they have been unable to arrive at a standardized size and design for a single belt buckle that can be worn with the uniforms of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

None of the services has been willing to give ground and accept a buckle that would not be completely harmonious with other parts of its uniform, although, on the surface one would think that McNamara had the power to arbitrarily pick a buckle design and simply order all the services to use it.

With this kind of history on unification, critics of the administration openly wonder about the vaunted authority and ability of the Defense secretary. They say in jest, but with a marked leer, how can we accept claims of great efficiency under McNamara in the Defense Department when he can't even break the belt buckle bottleneck!

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

"What is love?" She looked up seriously. The pale, blue-eyed face was taut against the pull of the blonde braids. The little mouth was pink and pursed. The knees were crossed to hold a book. They were knobby and a hint of baby blonde hair showed above the white sox. "I mean," she said, "what is it, really?"

I said I had no time for ridiculous questions. This is a stock reply to an unanswerable riddle. She nodded in agreement, although she did not agree, and the blue eyes returned to the book. She did not want to incur irritation. The little chest under the gray and white striped dressed lifted in a sigh, and settled.

Well, I said to myself, just what is love? Will you take the jaded view, or the idealistic? A child asks a common, uncomplicated question for which you have no answer. You can tell her it is what she feels for her mother, and her mother feels for her, and you have not helped. One might say that love is a deep and permanent affection, but she would ask what deep and permanent mean.

How about saying: "There are many kinds of love . . ." No. How about the dictionary? There, love is found below lout. It says: "A feeling of strong personal attachment induced by that which delights or commands admiration . . ." Specifically, by what which? "The principle or quality of which this feeling is a manifestation; also, its personification." Lame, limping words. Apologetic generalizations.

The definitions go on and on. Number 11 says: "Tennis. Nothing. No points scored." Number 6 says: "Sexual passion or, Rare, its gratification." That one would confuse a child, and bring a wry smile to an old lady's lips. Once, a long time ago, a man named Pilate stood before a man named Jesus and asked: "What is truth?" and truth, like love, will not stand still to be assessed.

Love always connotes affection, but how much and of what kind? An enigmatist once wrote: "Joys too exquisite to last, and yet more exquisite when past." The betrayed see love as a night mist, to be burned off by the morning sun. "Time stops to no man's lure/ And love, grown faint and fretful/ With lips but half regretful/ Sighs, and with eyes forgetful/ Weeps that no loves endure."

For a dead love, Oscar Wilde wrote: "Tread lightly, she is near/ Under the snow/ Speak gently, she can hear/ The daisies grow." In my time, I have heard love defined many times in many ways by many people. An old lady knelt on the concrete outside Sing Sing, her anguished face framed by fingers laced with a rosary. All she said was "Oh God! Oh God!" but there was love in heartbreak.

A bum on the Bowery kicked the snow from his torn shoes and raised a bottle against his toothless grin. "This," he said, "is love." A young lady in a hospital bed held her arms out as the nurse handed the receiving blanket to her, and the new mother opened the folds a little, looked down inside at the red wrinkled face, and a tear dropped from her cheek. This too . . .

An old man, neat and polished, sat beside a girl who was hardly more than a child. "Leave a note and walk out," he said softly. "They can't find us. I have the tickets in my pocket." Love. The teen-age boy, standing over the body of his father with a shotgun under his arms: "I just couldn't stand to have him make my mother cry one more time."

Love? Of what, pray, does it consist? How long is forever? Is love something which gives, or gets? Or both? Can sacrifice and greed sit in the same heart? The little girl had asked a solitary question and I was asking dozens. She has love to give, and she gives it timidly, half in fear that the tender petals of her affection may be spurned.

Child-like, she gave it freely in small ways: getting slippers; drying dishes; cleaning her room; finding the T.V. Guide; learning to put things where they belong; reaching shyly for the heart of a man who is not her true father; trying to be good when goodness is difficult.

"About love . . ." I said, and coughed. She looked up from the book. The mouth smiled the little womanly smile that said I-knew-you-would-tell-me. "God said the greatest love was when someone gives his life for someone else." She thought about it primly. Absent-mindedly, the pale hand with the tiny blue veins pulled the hem of the dress down. "Yes?" she said. "What other loves are there?"

"Well," I said. "Well." The China blue eyes engulfed the mask of my face, the gray of the hair, and all the old knowledge in the eyes. "There is the love you have for your mother; and the love you have for your sister; your father; a baby puppy; ahhh — the love I have for you . . ."

She giggled, and she hid the tiny split between her teeth with her palm. "Do you love me?" she said, and the imps of the ages danced a rigadoon in her eyes. I got up from my chair and went to her and picked her up and held her close. "I do," I murmured against her neck. "I do."

"I understand," she said. She didn't. But she will, someday . . ."

Candles On Cake, Calluses, And Kissing Bug

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

One of our readers shares a pet peeve of mine and we'll pass it along for what it is worth. "Don't you think it would be a good idea to include an article now and then against the practice of blowing out candles on a cake?"

Old customs are difficult to change and this is one of the most insanitary. Bacteria from the mouth are sprayed over the cake, especially by children, who do not appreciate the problem. Most of the objections are esthetic but certain diseases could be spread in this way. In addition, cake offers an excellent place for micro-organisms to multiply and the least we can do is to throw out what is left when the party is over.

The following suggestion comes from a New Rochelle, N. Y., man: "I have had minor foot troubles, mostly calluses, for more than 50 years. Three years ago I found they disappeared when I stopped wearing the same pair of shoes two days in a row. I have six pairs of inexpensive shoes, all the same size, but of different styles."

This is a good practice. Alternating the footgear means the feet are not subjected to the same pressures or rubbed along the same areas day after day. In addition, the shoes have a chance to dry out while not being worn.

The kissing bug (Triatoma protracta) is becoming a problem for many inhabitants of California. In Mariposa county alone, more than 110 persons have had one or more allergic reactions. Dr. Norman Nichols and Dr. Thomas W. Green say the bite is painless but itching develops shortly thereafter, followed by hives, nausea, vomiting, or fainting. Swelling of the eyes, tongue, and throat lead to difficulty in swallowing, speaking, and breathing. The engorged bug usually is found in or around the bed.

The injection of epinephrine or a corticosteroid and the use of an antihistamic product bring prompt relief. Reactions to the bite have been so severe, some victims have moved out of the foothills. Others are clearing out the underbrush, rubbish, and wood rat nests in the vicinity of the house. In all probability, an extract will be developed to desensitize those who are allergic to the proteins of the Triatoma bug.

HIGH FAT CONSUMPTION

M. G. writes: Could consuming a high fat diet over a long period lead to a disease such as diabetes or something?

REPLY

Obesity often precedes diabetes in a person who is pre-disposed to the disease. But overweight is not the cause. On the other hand, a high fat diet may increase the blood cholesterol and encourage hardening of the arteries.

BULGE MEANS OUTWARD

J. C. writes: Do hernias always bulge out or can they be inward?

REPLY

A hernia is a protrusion of an organ or a part through some opening in the wall of its natural cavity. But some, like the diaphragmatic hernia, bulge within the body.

J. K. writes: Does the blood pressure control the nerves or do the nerves control the blood pressure?

REPLY

Nerve impulses alter the blood pressure but "control" is much more complicated than this.

Two practical jokers shared a hotel room at a big convention in Chicago. One sneaked in early the second night of the doings, filled the bathtub and deposited therein two live ducks he had procured after a long search.

His companion was properly flabbergasted when he saw the ducks paddling about in the tub. "They must have flown in through the window while we were out," surmised the jokester. "Sure, sure," agreed his friend, "but what bugs me is—how the dickens did they turn on the water?"

Passing Of The Salami Tactician

Matyas Rakosi, ex-dictator of Hungary, died almost unnoticed in a Moscow hospital the other day. His career followed a routine Red path.

But he deserves to be remembered for coining a memorable, frank phrase which sums up the strategy of Communists taking over governments in which they start out as a minority.

He called it "salami tactics," defined it as "demanding a little more each day, like cutting up a salami, thin slice after thin slice." He was describing how he took over Hungary after World War II by gradually whittling Cabinet ministers down to size.

Once in power, Communists use a cleaver. Thus in 1949, at Stalin's request, Rakosi put Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk on trial for treason and frightened or drugged him into abject public confession and a plea that he deserved to be hanged. Rakosi obliged.

In 1956, Rajk was "rehabilitated" and Rakosi was fired as dictator. But he remained on the high level of Politbureau member. Rajk's rehabilitation left him on a much lower level—the grave. A year ago Rakosi was fired from Politbureau and party "for absolute political responsibility for miscarriages of justice based on forged evidence."

The salami slicer and hatchet man was belatedly cut down, but his life was spared. He had after all done yeoman service for the cause. But the phrase he coined lives on, a timeless warning.

These Days

World Of Mao Tse-Tung

To Americans, it is rather obvious that the Negroes' push for protection of their rights under the Fourteenth Amendment is part and parcel of the aspiration of a people for acceptance as members of the great U.S. middle class. The Negro wants to be like everybody else, a person who can own property, speak as he wishes, be served a cup of coffee anywhere without encountering animosity, and get a job without reference to matters of pigmentation.

To certain areas of the outer world, however, the surge of the Negroes has "proletarian" overtones. This delusion has had its most pronounced effect in Red China, where, according to a report printed in the weekly bulletin put out by the Taiwan Chinese in New York City, the Mao Tse-tung government has "set up a special agency for the purpose of promoting racial strife in the United States and elsewhere." Mao evidently takes his "leadership of the world's colored people" with great seriousness for he has put his new agency under the direction of three extremely influential Red Chinese Pooh-bahs. They are Liu Ning-i, chairman of the Communist All China Federation of Trade Unions, Liu Chang-sheng, president of the Red China-Africa Friendship Association, and Liao Cheng-chi, chairman of the Overseas Chinese Affairs Commission.

"The speedy development of the struggle of American Negroes," said Mao in a 1,000-word statement accompanying the announcement of the creation of the new "racial strife" unit, "is a manifestation of the sharpening class struggle and national struggles within the United States. . . . I call upon the workers, peasants, revolutionary intellectuals . . . to unite against the racial discrimination practiced by U.S. imperialism and to support the American Negroes in their struggle against racial discrimination." As for the Kennedy civil rights program, it is, to Mao, "two-faced tactics . . . an attempt to lull the fighting will of the Negro people and to deceive the masses throughout the country." Mao is not against accepting help from "enlightened" whites, but Kennedy, to him, is not enlightened.

Mao's statement was issued ostensibly at the request of Robert F. Williams, a North Carolina Negro who, according to the Taiwan Chinese news bulletin, "has sought refuge in Cuba." Since many of Cuba's Negroes are risking their lives daily to escape from Fidel Castro's paradise, Mr. Williams's choice of abode can hardly be taken as a true expression of his race's opinion or its will.

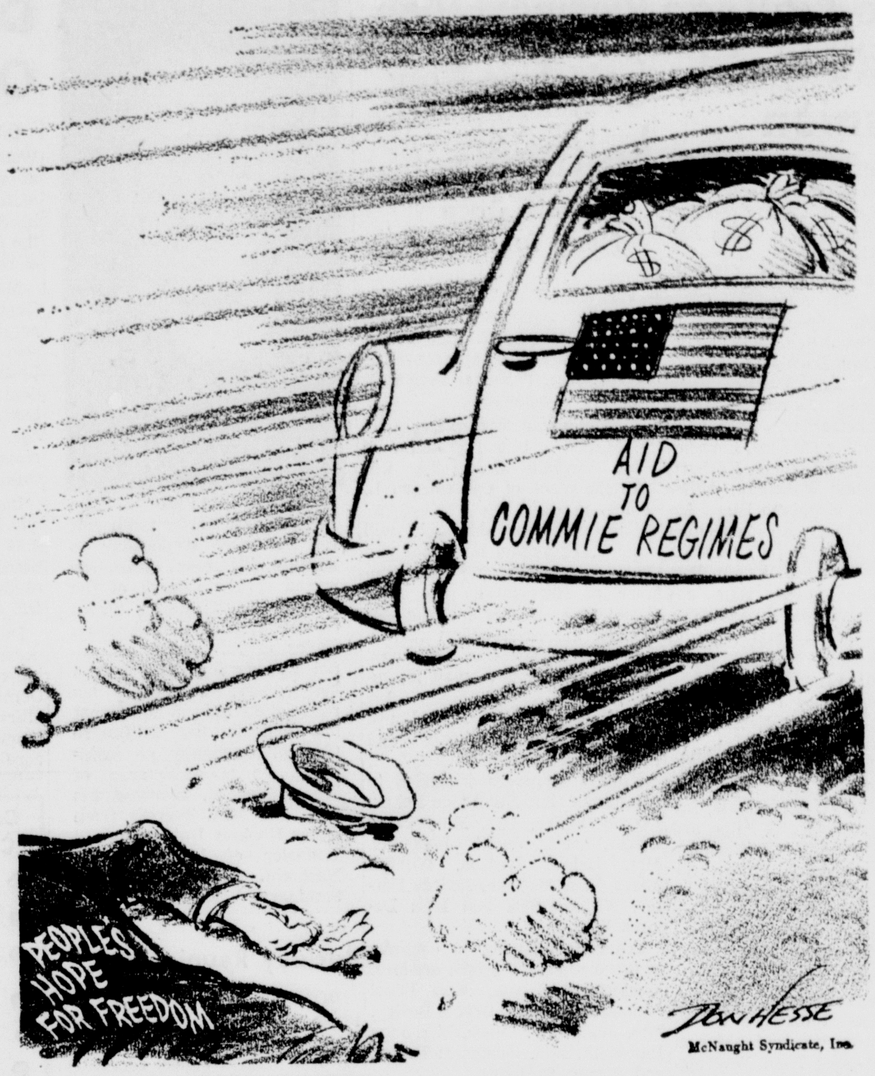

What impresses one chiefly about Mao Tse-tung's reaction to the American Negroes' demands is its archaic flavor. The Red Chinese dictator sees the world through the spectacles of forty years ago. Those were the days when our Lothrop Stoddards and our Madison Grants were writing books that bore such titles as "The Rising Tide of Color" and "The Passing of the Great Race." In fighting a war against the "Nordic" supremacist, Hitler, however, Americans rather lost their taste for books that envisioned the future as a great war of the races. Even the European and American Communists, though they manifestly continue to fish in the troubled waters of local racial demonstrations for "rights," gave up on the apocalyptic ideas that Mao Tse-tung is now embracing. A generation ago the European and American Communists were calling for "self-determination of the American black belt." But when it became clear to them that only the Black Muslims want "self-determination" in a "belt" of their own, the European and American Communists decided to make a right-about-face and return to the world of reality.

Mao's decision to try to make the world a racial shambles ignores the whole underlying motive of the American Negro organizations that are behind the current drives for "equality." The Negro wants to be "integrated" in a social context that is entirely middle class. He wants to be able to live in a suburb, to have a refrigerator and a television set in a house that is financed under conventional mortgage arrangements, and to drive a Detroit-made car to a non-discriminatory beach. He wants conventional schooling of a type that will enable him to hold down a job with a capitalistic corporation.

Maybe the Negro, in pushing for Federal help in getting his desires in states that are slow to respond, is straining the U.S. Constitution, which left the protection of civil liberties to local authorities under the Tenth Amendment. But whatever the Constitutional aspects of the struggle may be, the Negro wants to rise in the American world, not fall. He is not interested in being a "proletarian"; he wants to be right up there with the middle class Joneses.

On The Way To The Palace

Bulgarian Premier Tells Pearson Only U.S., Russia Can Keep Peace

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson, the first Western newsman to interview the Premier of Bulgaria, today gives the details of his talk.)

VARNA, Bulgaria — My interview with Premier Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria took place at a tea table in a shady spot on the palace lawn of the former kings of Bulgaria. Tea in Bulgaria is almost a banquet. It consisted of caviar, two kinds of sausage, two kinds of cheese, nuts, ice cream, and coffee. Premier Zhivkov sat relaxed in shirtsleeves and no necktie.

I told him that I had once learned his language from a Bulgarian corporal named Zhivkov, one of 100 Bulgarian prisoners allotted to a unit of the American Friends Service Committee after World War I to rebuild Yugoslav villages burned down by the Bulgars.

After saying this, I almost wished I hadn't, because relations between Yugoslavia and Bulgaria over the years have been very bitter. However, the Prime Minister passed the matter off pleasantly. He said Zhivkov was about as common a name in the Balkans as Smith in America.

Perhaps the most important question we discovered was whether Red China was likely to start a war, in view of its opposition to co-existence between the United States and Russia. I knew that until about a year ago Bulgaria was still in the Stalinist camp and leaned toward Red China.

"I am not worried about China for two reasons," Zhivkov replied. "First, it took twenty years for the United States to perfect the atom bomb and China is not going to get nuclear weapons easily. Second, world opinion against China would be too strong."

"Now that President Kennedy and Khrushchev have agreed to a test ban treaty," I asked, "what should be the next step in improving relations between the United States and Russia?"

"Disarmament," Premier Zhivkov replied without hesitation. "Even if there is only partial disarmament, it will be an important step. We have to begin."

Serious Tea Party

"The small nations like Bulgaria don't count when it comes to preventing war," he said. "But you and Russia have the power within yourselves to keep the peace. If you stand together, I am not worried.

"Bulgaria can't start a war but we are concerned about war. We have been through too many of them. I asked our scientists the other day to give me a report on the results of nuclear war and they reported that it would take 1,800 years to decontaminate the earth after such a war.

"Pardon me for talking so seriously at a tea party," said Zhivkov, pouring another cup of coffee — not tea — "but these are things we all have to worry about.

"No one can win a nuclear war," he continued, "if the socialist countries throw the first bomb, we'll reap the same kind of destruction you will reap. And if you throw the first bomb, you will suffer just as much as we do.

"So we hope relations between us will improve. If they are left to us, this will be."

I asked the Bulgarian Prime Minister what he thought of the current Soviet policy of co-existence and how it jibed with Khrushchev's one-time statement that he would bury us.

"When Khrushchev said he would bury you," replied Zhivkov, "he was speaking in a rhetorical sense. He didn't mean war. This statement was greatly misinterpreted. The fact is that we know we can't change you from being capitalists and we don't want to. And you know that you can't change us from being Communists."

Women In Bulgaria

Mrs. Pearson told the Prime Minister that we had watched a woman boss a gang of Bulgarian men in laying a macadam pavement on the docks that morning.

She seemed to be getting the job done faster than men," Mrs. P. remarked. "Does this kind of work by women happen in Bulgaria often?"

I protested that the question was unfair to men, but Zhivkov gave a lengthy reply on the advancemen of women in the new Bulgaria. He also paid tribute to Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, the U. S. Minister to Bulgaria, but commented:

"When it comes to improving relations between the United States and Bulgaria, Mrs. Anderson is always preaching cultural exchange. That's all right, but why not get down to brass tacks? The real way to improve relations is through trade and political relations. Of course," he added, "Mrs. Anderson is acting under orders from the State Department."

The conversation under the trees on the shore of the Black Sea touched many other questions, ranging from religion, regarding which Zhivkov said his mother was a devout believer, to Balkan friction, regarding which he said that the ticklish Macedonian problem had now been settled by putting the Macedonians under Yugoslavia as a republic. This, for a Bulgarian, was a very important concession.

Finally I asked whether other Bulgarians could be counted on to follow a policy of peaceful co-existence.

"Only five per cent of the people in the Bulgarian government are of my age," replied Zhivkov, who is 52. "The others are younger. And they are unequivocally for peace."

Did Lincoln Believe In White, Negro Equality?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—They stand before the shrine of Abraham Lincoln—before the impressive edifice which memorializes a great man. But do all those who assembled this week before the massive statue of the country lawyer who became President of the United States know what he really said about the race problem? Would the Negro leaders of today venture to quote what Lincoln actually said in his public speeches more than 100 years ago?

Is it generally realized, for instance, that Lincoln didn't favor the social equality of Negroes and whites and frankly stated that he didn't believe this should be established by law or otherwise? Also, would what Lincoln had to say about the legitimacy of "resisting" court decisions be approved today by the members of the American Bar Association who voted recently for a resolution condemning the effort of certain groups to correct by legal methods rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States considered to be unjust and arbitrary?

Yet it's all in a book published in 1958 by the Library of Congress, giving the stenographic records of speeches made by Abraham Lincoln in his famous debates with Stephen A. Douglas. Lincoln denounced slavery, and then explained his position on the race problem generally as he said:

"I have no purpose to introduce political and social equality between the white and the black races. There is a physical difference between the two, which in my judgment will probably forever forbid their living together upon the footing of perfect equality, and inasmuch as it becomes a necessity that there must be a difference, I, as well as Judge Douglas, am in favor of the race to which I belong having the superior position.

"I have never said anything to the contrary, but I hold that he is as much entitled to these as the white man. I agree with Judge Douglas, he is not my equal in many respects — certainly not in color, perhaps not in moral or intellectual endowment. But in the right to eat the bread, without leave of anybody else, which his own hand earns, he is my equal and the equal of Judge Douglas, and the equal of every living man. . . .

"What next? Free them and make them politically and socially our equals? My own feelings will not admit of this; and if mine would, we well know that those of the great mass of white people will not. Whether this feeling accords with justice and sound judgment is not the sole question, if, indeed it is any part of it. A universal feeling, whether well or ill-founded, cannot be safely disregarded. We cannot, then, make them equals."

In another speech in 1858 Lincoln said:

"I will say then that I am not, nor ever have been in favor of bringing about in any way the social and political equality of the white and black races — that I am not nor ever have been in favor of making voters or jurors of Negroes, nor of qualifying them to hold office, nor to intermarry with white people; and I will say in addition to this that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which I believe will forever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality. And inasmuch as they cannot so live, while they do remain together there must be the position of superior and inferior, and I as much as any other man am in favor of having the superior position assigned to the white race. . . .

"I will add to this that I have never seen to my knowledge a man, woman or child who was in favor of producing a perfect equality, social and political, between Negroes and white men."

The same year Lincoln bitterly criticized the Supreme Court for its decision in the Dred Scott case upholding slavery as a property right. He said of the decision:

"We propose so resisting it as to have it reversed if we can, and a new judicial rule established upon this subject."

Lincoln in another speech quoted with approval a letter from Thomas Jefferson, written in 1820, which declared that, if the judges of the Supreme Court are to be considered as "the ultimate arbiters of all constitutional questions," this could be a "very dangerous doctrine indeed and one which would place us under the despotism of an oligarchy."

So, irrespective of the homage paid to Abraham Lincoln this week for a particular purpose, there are plenty of quotations which, if uttered by anyone else today, would cause many whites and Negroes to denounce such a spokesman as a "racist" or "extremist." Yet the fact is that many people who want to see the Negro given every opportunity to advance in the economic field and enjoy the political privileges and benefits of life probably share the historic views of Abraham Lincoln.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ECONOMY — Federal government employes have been ordered to travel tourist class when possible in using commercial airlines for business trips.

Recently, the deputy undersecretary of the Army, Howard E. Haugerud, with three of his aides, flew to Dallas for a meeting. As one rather broad-beamed officer squeezed himself into one of the narrow seats, the usual amount of derogatory remarks flew around concerning the economy order.

Haugerud interrupted the biting gaiety when he said to his colleagues, "If you will look across the aisle, gentlemen, you may be no more comfortable, but you will feel better."

Sitting across from them, in the same economy section, were Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, jammed into the same narrow seats.

A BELT BUCKLE — The belt buckle has become the symbol of the frustrations of Armed Forces unification at the Pentagon. And so far, the advocates of apartness are out in front.

When Robert S. McNamara became secretary of Defense, he pledged to achieve a greater degree of unification among the services as a means of saving money and increasing efficiency.

McNamara has had inter-agency committees working on the project ever since, and deadlines have passed. But so far they have been unable to arrive at a standardized size and design for a single belt buckle that can be worn with the uniforms of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

None of the services has been willing to give ground and accept a buckle that would not be completely harmonious with other parts of its uniform, although, on the surface one would think that McNamara had the power to arbitrarily pick a buckle design and simply order all the services to use it.

With this kind of history on unification, critics of the administration openly wonder about the vaunted authority and ability of the Defense secretary. They say in jest, but with a marked leer, how can we accept claims of great efficiency under McNamara in the Defense Department when he can't even break the belt buckle bottleneck!

"What is love?" She looked up seriously. The pale, blue-eyed face was taut against the pull of the blonde braids. The little mouth was pink and pursed. The knees were crossed to hold a book. They were knobby and a hint of baby blonde hair showed above the white sox. "I mean," she said, "what is it, really?"

I said I had no time for ridiculous questions. This is a stock reply to an unanswerable riddle. She nodded in agreement, although she did not agree, and the blue eyes returned to the book. She did not want to incur irritation. The little chest under the gray and white striped dressed lifted in a sigh, and settled.

Well, I said to myself, just what is love? Will you take the jaded view, or the idealistic? A child asks a common, uncomplicated question for which you have no answer. You can tell her it is what she feels for her mother, and her mother feels for her, and you have not helped. One might say that love is a deep and permanent affection, but she would ask what deep and permanent mean.

How about saying: "There are many kinds of love . . ." No. How about the dictionary? There, love is found below lout. It says: "A feeling of strong personal attachment induced by that which delights or commands admiration . . ." Specifically, by what which? "The principle or quality of which this feeling is a manifestation; also, its personification." Lame, limping words. Apologetic generalizations.

The definitions go on and on. Number 11 says: "Tennis. Nothing. No points scored." Number 6 says: "Sexual passion or, Rare, its gratification." That one would confuse a child, and bring a wry smile to an old lady's lips. Once, a long time ago, a man named Pilate stood before a man named Jesus and asked: "What is truth?" and truth, like love, will not stand still to be assessed.

Love always connotes affection, but how much and of what kind? An enigmatist once wrote: "Joys too exquisite to last, and yet more exquisite when past." The betrayed see love as a night mist, to be burned off by the morning sun. "Time stops to no man's lure/ And love, grown faint and fretful/ With lips but half regretful/ Sighs, and with eyes forgetful/ Weeps that no loves endure."

For a dead love, Oscar Wilde wrote: "Tread lightly, she is near/ Under the snow/ Speak gently, she can hear/ The daisies grow." In my time, I have heard love defined many times in many ways by many people. An old lady knelt on the concrete outside Sing Sing, her anguished face framed by fingers laced with a rosary. All she said was "Oh God! Oh God!" but there was love in heartbreak.

A bum on the Bowery kicked the snow from his torn shoes and raised a bottle against his toothless grin. "This," he said, "is love." A young lady in a hospital bed held her arms out as the nurse handed the receiving blanket to her, and the new mother opened the folds a little, looked down inside at the red wrinkled face, and a tear dropped from her cheek. This too . . .

An old man, neat and polished, sat beside a girl who was hardly more than a child. "Leave a note and walk out," he said softly. "They can't find us. I have the tickets in my pocket." Love. The teen-age boy, standing over the body of his father with a shotgun under his arms: "I just couldn't stand to have him make my mother cry one more time."

Love? Of what, pray, does it consist? How long is forever? Is love something which gives, or gets? Or both? Can sacrifice and greed sit in the same heart? The little girl had asked a solitary question and I was asking dozens. She has love to give, and she gives it timidly, half in fear that the tender petals of her affection may be spurned.

Child-like, she gave it freely in small ways: getting slippers; drying dishes; cleaning her room; finding the T.V. Guide; learning to put things where they belong; reaching shyly for the heart of a man who is not her true father; trying to be good when goodness is difficult.

"About love . . ." I said, and coughed. She looked up from the book. The mouth smiled the little womanly smile that said I-knew-you-would-tell-me. "God said the greatest love was when someone gives his life for someone else." She thought about it primly. Absent-mindedly, the pale hand with the tiny blue veins pulled the hem of the dress down. "Yes?" she said. "What other loves are there?"

"Well," I said. "Well." The China blue eyes engulfed the mask of my face, the gray of the hair, and all the old knowledge in the eyes. "There is the love you have for your mother; and the love you have for your sister; your father; a baby puppy; ahhh — the love I have for you . . ."

She giggled, and she hid the tiny split between her teeth with her palm. "Do you love me?" she said, and the imps of the ages danced a rigadoon in her eyes. I got up from my chair and went to her and picked her up and held her close. "I do." I murmured against her neck. "I do."

"I understand," she said. She didn't. But she will, someday . . ."

Candles On Cake, Calluses, And Kissing Bug

Rail Strike Will Not Slow Mail Delivery

KEYSER — The local Post Office is prepared to handle the mail situation with proficiency in event of a nationwide railway strike, according to James Broome, acting postmaster.

He said that planes, trucks, and buses will be pressed into service to move air mail and first class material to its destination and to move other classes of mail within an approximate 150-mile radius of Keyser should a nationwide strike become a reality.

He said he has received instructions not to accept mailings other than first class, air mail, and air parcel post which are destined for points beyond the second parcel post delivery zone, which extends generally about 150 miles from Keyser for the duration of the strike if it occurs.

Broome pointed out that Pittsburgh, Washington, and Baltimore are among cities within the 150-mile zone of Keyser which will continue to get full mail service from this post office.

He said that service would be temporarily suspended on second class magazine and newspapers, third class matter, and fourth class parcel post packages addressed to points beyond the second parcel post zone but that the Post Office is prepared to handle any letter or parcel addressed to any point provided first class or air mail postage is paid on the item.

He said the public and large mailers may call 788-1501 for detailed information or to get answers to technical questions involving their particular mailing problems.

Biggest "savings book" in the world

Keeping the Free World free is a mighty expensive proposition.

And our enemies are doing everything they can to make it so. They've said they expect to "bury us" economically.

They see us as soft, self-satisfied, lazy. They don't think we're prepared to make any sacrifices for freedom.

But there's a "special book" in the U.S. Treasury Department that says they're as wrong about that as they are about a lot of other things.

It's a symbolic "freedom book" which shows that tens of millions of American families have invested 46 billions of dollars in their country in the form of U.S. Savings Bonds. Dollars the government uses to keep our economy strong. To help keep the Free World free.

They see us as soft, self-satisfied, lazy. They don't think we're prepared to make any sacrifices for freedom.

Minnesota Sets Two Major League Homer Records At Washington

Twins Wallop Dozen, Capture Doubleheader

Belt 8 In Opening Game In Scoring 14-2, 10-1 Wins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Minnesota Twins, in a muscular explosion of power, slugged out 12 home runs Thursday to break two major league records and tie two others in thrashing the Washington Senators twice, 14-2 and 10-1.

Harmon Killebrew led the Twins' bombardment with three home runs. Vic Power, Jim Hall and Bernie Allen had two each. Solo homers were hit by Bob Allison, Rich Rollins and Zorro Versalles. The spree set major league records for most homers hit in four consecutive games (17) and for three straight (15).

The Twins slammed eight homers in the first game to equal a major league mark for a single contest. Also tied in the first contest was a record of six players on one team hitting homers.

The 12 homers for a doubleheader fell one short of the major league record of 13 set by the 1939 New York Yankees. Minnesota has belted at least one home run in its last nine games and has blased 22 over that span.

In the opener, the eight Minnesota home runs equalled a record set by four other clubs in the past—the 1939 Yankees and Milwaukee, Cincinnati, and San Francisco in the National League.

At the conclusion of the Twins' bombardment it also was discovered they broke an American League record for most home runs in five consecutive games (18) and tied the league high for six consecutive games (19).

In the Twins' opening game 20-hit attack off four Washington pitchers, Killebrew and Power smacked two home runs apiece while Allison, Hall, Allen and Rollins got one apiece. It was the highest hit total for the Twins this year.

In the nightcap, Allen opened the game with a homer off loser Jim Duckworth to initiate a 15-hit attack. Hall sparked a five - run third with his second homer of the day and his 27th of the year. In the fourth, Killebrew crashed his 32nd of the year—a two-run blow off Pete Burnside.

Then in the fifth, a lead - off homer by Versalles set the record for three and four consecutive contests.

Rookie Dwight Seibler threw a sharp three-hitter to get his first major league win. He lost his shutout in the sixth when Don Rudolph walked, went to third on Don Blasingame's single and scored on a double play.

Ellsworth Wins 19th As Cubs Edge Phils, 2-1

Ken Hubbs' Double Breaks Tie In 8th

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ken Hubbs' eighth inning double scored Ellis Burton from third base Thursday to give the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, with Dick Ellsworth's 19th win, the most for a Cubs lefthander since 1920.

The Cubs, though, were hard pressed to give Phils starter John Boozer his third defeat as he scattered 10 hits. The first Chicago run came on three singles and Burton's sacrifice fly.

Burton opened the winning inning with a single and, after Ron Santo flied out, he reached third on Billy William's single before Hubbs came to bat.

Earl Averill got the Phils' only run with his second homer, one of six hits off Ellsworth, who walked two and struck out two. It was his sixth straight win and his 10th in the last 11 decisions.

The last Cubs lefthander to win 19 games was Jim Vaughn in 1920 and the last 20-game winner for the Cubs was Hank Wyse with 22 in 1945.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies was ejected from the game in the fifth after he complained that outfielder Lou Brock ran out of the base line to avoid a tag.

Soccer Player Almost Drowns During Game

ELVERUM, Norway (AP) — A soccer player almost drowned on the playing field in a game last Saturday.

The player was stunned and fell, face down, during some rugged play at one end of the field. The area was covered by water to a depth of four inches because of a 20-hour deluge that still was continuing.

Play shifted to the other end of the field and it was some time before either officials or players realized that the unconscious player was choking. Artificial respiration had to be applied.

Four hundred athletes from 24 nations will gather at Towson, Md., Sept. 3-19 for the International Women's Field Hockey Tournament.

Stimulant Given Relko Still Remains Mystery

British Officials Unable To Decide

LONDON (UPI)—English racing officials decided Thursday that this year's English Derby winner, Relko, was administered "a substance other than a normal nutrient" prior to the race, but they could not agree on the identity or the effect of the substance.

Stewards of the Jockey Club announced that they have adjourned the case for further inquiry in conjunction with the police, leaving Britain's racing public somewhat mystified.

Relko won the English Derby on May 29 by six lengths and earned his owner, Paris hotelman Francois Dupre, 35,338 pounds ($90,946).

A saliva test on the French colt immediately after the Derby proved negative. However, traces of a drug were found in Relko's urine.

This disclosure, and several other cases of alleged doping of horses, touched off a widespread investigation of racing in Britain.

The Jockey Club stewards' report Thursday stated that "from the technical evidence," they could not determine that the substance found in Relko's urine was administered with the intention of increasing his speed "or improving its stamina, courage or conduct in the race."

Experts engaged by the jockey club differed as the nature of the substance administered Relko.

Stanley Dancer, the harness driver, recently won six races in six starts at the Carlisle, Pa., Fair.

Lions Seek Third Exhibition Win Against Steelers Tonight

Pro Teams Card 11 Games Over Holiday Weekend

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Detroit's determined Lions, hoping this is the year they shed their bridemaid's role in their constant chase of the Green Bay Packers, seek their third National League football exhibition victory Friday night in a meeting with the improved Pittsburgh Steelers.

San Francisco's winless 49ers clash with the Dallas Cowboys at Bakersfield, Calif., in the only other Friday night game but there will be nine additional exhibitions played over the long Labor Day weekend.

Six of the eight American Football League teams will see action Saturday night. The big one will mark the first meeting of the Houston Oilers and the Kansas City Chiefs since their championship clash last winter. The game will be played at Wichita, Kan.

Buffalo plays Denver at Winston-Salem, N.C., and the surprising Oakland Raiders take on the Chargers at San Diego Saturday. The league's only winless teams, Boston and New York meet Sunday at New Brunswick, N.J.

The NFL's only all-winning teams, Baltimore and Minnesota, play Saturday but not against each other. The Colts tackle the Washington Redskins at Norfolk, Va., and the Vikings kick off against the Philadelphia Eagles at Hershey, Pa. St. Louis plays the Chicago Bears and Cleveland meets the Los Angeles Rams the same night.

A Labor Day game between the Packers and New York Giants at Green Bay closes out the busy holiday schedule.

The Lions, hard hit by injuries in their 22-17 victory over St. Louis last week again likely will be without the services of quarterback Milt Plum. Earl Morrall will do the signal calling. The Steelers (1-2) should present a better running game with Tom Tracy back in stride.

The Vikings, surprise team of the NFL, hope to make the Eagles their fourth straight victim. Coach Norm Van Brocklin may unveil Ron VanderKelen, the Rose Bowl and All-Star hero, at quarterback. The Eagles will be led by Sonny Jurgensen who completed 33 out of 53 for 412 yards and three touchdowns in a 41-13 triumph over the Redskins last week.

Hard-running fullback Curt McClinton will be in the Chiefs' lineup as Kansas City tries to make it four victories in five games at the expense of Houston. George Blanda, who has seen limited service, will start for the Oilers (2-2).

Ellsworth Wins 19th As Cubs Edge Phils, 2-1

Ken Hubbs' Double Breaks Tie In 8th

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ken Hubbs' eighth inning double scored Ellis Burton from third base Thursday to give the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, with Dick Ellsworth's 19th win, the most for a Cubs lefthander since 1920.

The Cubs, though, were hard pressed to give Phils starter John Boozer his third defeat as he scattered 10 hits. The first Chicago run came on three singles and Burton's sacrifice fly.

Burton opened the winning inning with a single and, after Ron Santo flied out, he reached third on Billy William's single before Hubbs came to bat.

Earl Averill got the Phils' only run with his second homer, one of six hits off Ellsworth, who walked two and struck out two. It was his sixth straight win and his 10th in the last 11 decisions.

The last Cubs lefthander to win 19 games was Jim Vaughn in 1920 and the last 20-game winner for the Cubs was Hank Wyse with 22 in 1945.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies was ejected from the game in the fifth after he complained that outfielder Lou Brock ran out of the base line to avoid a tag.

Soccer Player Almost Drowns During Game

ELVERUM, Norway (AP) — A soccer player almost drowned on the playing field in a game last Saturday.

The player was stunned and fell, face down, during some rugged play at one end of the field. The area was covered by water to a depth of four inches because of a 20-hour deluge that still was continuing.

Play shifted to the other end of the field and it was some time before either officials or players realized that the unconscious player was choking. Artificial respiration had to be applied.

Four hundred athletes from 24 nations will gather at Towson, Md., Sept. 3-19 for the International Women's Field Hockey Tournament.

Stimulant Given Relko Still Remains Mystery

British Officials Unable To Decide

LONDON (UPI)—English racing officials decided Thursday that this year's English Derby winner, Relko, was administered "a substance other than a normal nutrient" prior to the race, but they could not agree on the identity or the effect of the substance.

Stewards of the Jockey Club announced that they have adjourned the case for further inquiry in conjunction with the police, leaving Britain's racing public somewhat mystified.

Relko won the English Derby on May 29 by six lengths and earned his owner, Paris hotelman Francois Dupre, 35,338 pounds ($90,946).

A saliva test on the French colt immediately after the Derby proved negative. However, traces of a drug were found in Relko's urine.

This disclosure, and several other cases of alleged doping of horses, touched off a widespread investigation of racing in Britain.

The Jockey Club stewards' report Thursday stated that "from the technical evidence," they could not determine that the substance found in Relko's urine was administered with the intention of increasing his speed "or improving its stamina, courage or conduct in the race."

Experts engaged by the jockey club differed as the nature of the substance administered Relko.

Stanley Dancer, the harness driver, recently won six races in six starts at the Carlisle, Pa., Fair.

Lions Seek Third Exhibition Win Against Steelers Tonight

Pro Teams Card 11 Games Over Holiday Weekend

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Detroit's determined Lions, hoping this is the year they shed their bridemaid's role in their constant chase of the Green Bay Packers, seek their third National League football exhibition victory Friday night in a meeting with the improved Pittsburgh Steelers.

San Francisco's winless 49ers clash with the Dallas Cowboys at Bakersfield, Calif., in the only other Friday night game but there will be nine additional exhibitions played over the long Labor Day weekend.

Six of the eight American Football League teams will see action Saturday night. The big one will mark the first meeting of the Houston Oilers and the Kansas City Chiefs since their championship clash last winter. The game will be played at Wichita, Kan.

Buffalo plays Denver at Winston-Salem, N.C., and the surprising Oakland Raiders take on the Chargers at San Diego Saturday. The league's only winless teams, Boston and New York meet Sunday at New Brunswick, N.J.

The NFL's only all-winning teams, Baltimore and Minnesota, play Saturday but not against each other. The Colts tackle the Washington Redskins at Norfolk, Va., and the Vikings kick off against the Philadelphia Eagles at Hershey, Pa. St. Louis plays the Chicago Bears and Cleveland meets the Los Angeles Rams the same night.

A Labor Day game between the Packers and New York Giants at Green Bay closes out the busy holiday schedule.

The Lions, hard hit by injuries in their 22-17 victory over St. Louis last week again likely will be without the services of quarterback Milt Plum. Earl Morrall will do the signal calling. The Steelers (1-2) should present a better running game with Tom Tracy back in stride.

The Vikings, surprise team of the NFL, hope to make the Eagles their fourth straight victim. Coach Norm Van Brocklin may unveil Ron VanderKelen, the Rose Bowl and All-Star hero, at quarterback. The Eagles will be led by Sonny Jurgensen who completed 33 out of 53 for 412 yards and three touchdowns in a 41-13 triumph over the Redskins last week.

Hard-running fullback Curt McClinton will be in the Chiefs' lineup as Kansas City tries to make it four victories in five games at the expense of Houston. George Blanda, who has seen limited service, will start for the Oilers (2-2).

Moose Nip VFW, 4-3, To Repeat As Rocking Chair Playoff Champs

Price Delivers Key Triple In Last Of Eighth

Vets' Elliott Has Scoreless Inning Streak Snapped

What amounted to a "summer re - run series" was completed yesterday at Stitcher Field, where the Loyal Order of Moose edged pennant - winning VFW, 4-3 in eight innings, to repeat as playoff champions of the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The hard - fought victory was the third in four games for the Moose in the best - of - five championship series. The Vets romped to an 8-0 victory in the second game, but the Moose put together 4-1 and 6-1 triumphs in the first and third contests.

Last season, the Vets won the regular season pennant for the fifth straight time only to be beaten by the Moose in the playoffs, and history has repeated itself. The 1962 finals were also decided in four games, Hayden Phillips winning all three for the Moose.

Rally In Seventh

Junior Brelsfod got the mound call for the Moose yesterday and pitched scoreless two - hit ball until the seventh, when the Vets rallied for two runs and sent the battle into overtime.

VFW went ahead with a run in the top of the eighth, but the Moose came back with a pair in their half of the frame.

Pinch - hitter Bill Thompson, batting for Brelsford, led off the eighth with a two - base rap. Following Donnie Madden's ground out, Johnny Price slashed a triple to send Thompson home with the tying tally.

Pete Cecil was intentionally passed, when Harry Widdows lofted a sacrifice fly to leftfield, scoring Price and enabling player-manager Herman Lewis' club to repeat as playoff titlists.

Eckard Raps Homer

Jimmy Eckard clouted a bases-empty homer for the Vets' first run in the seventh, and Bobby Mundeno scored when his single was misplayed into a three-base error. Price scored in similar fashion for the Moose in the sixth.

Pete Elliott, VFW righthander who had registered four straight shutouts, extended his consecutive scoreless inning string to 34 before the Moose reached him for a run in the fourth. Elliott, who walked one and struck out three, gave up ten hits in suffering only his second loss in 15 decisions.

Three Moose players checked in with two hits apiece. Price rapped a triple and single, Bob Keyser had a double and single and Mickey Cunningham chipped in with a pair of singles.

Share Four Safeties

Eckard and Mundeno accounted for four of the six hits off Brelsford. Eckard hit a single in addition to his round - tripper, and Mundeno clubbed a two -bagger and single.

Brelsford, who wound up with a 9-3 record for the campaign, failed to walk a batter while striking out five. He was the winning pitcher in Monday's opening playoff victory.

The linescore:

VFW	000 000 21—	3	6	2
Moose	000 101 02—	4	10	3

(eight innings)

Pete Elliott and Ronnie Cage, Junior Brelsford and Paul McGregor.

Don Kenney limited First Methodist to two hits while Old Furnace collected 13 safeties off "Chid" Bridges.

Reth Moreland rapped a triple and two singles, Charles Liller homered, Dave Sutton smacked a three-bagger and single and Kenney garnered a pair of doubles for the winners. D. Ziler had two hits for First Methodist.

Lough's 34th Team — 25th Year For Tack

Excitement At Races — Altoona's New Coach

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN the college football season opens next month Dana G. "Horse" Lough will be sending his 26th Potomac State College team into action.

Dean Lough coached at Chesapeake (Ohio) High School for six years before he came into this section in the early 1930s to take over the grid reins at Piedmont High School and thence at Keyser High for one season (1934) as successor to Bert Harbert, who became grid mentor at Allegany High School.

The former pro gridder-wrestler is really starting his 34th year as football coach and it would be his 37th if the war hadn't shut down the fall sport at Potomac State for three years — 1943, 1944 and 1945.

Lough's record of 99-94-5 is noteworthy when you consider the fact that Potomac State is a junior college and has tackled four-year colleges for many years.

When we asked "Horse" his age, he replied:

"Let's put it this way. I'm 63 in '63. I was born in January, 1900."

Then we asked the dean of area coaches if he was considering retirement.

"I'm too young to retire," was his answer.

Next in consecutive years of service as a gridiron mentor is Frederick "Tack" Clark, who is approaching his 25th season. An Allegany High alumnus, Clark made his coaching debut at Moorefield High School in 1939 and spent four years there before succeeding Bob Kyle at Keyser in 1943.

This is "Tack's" 21st season at Keyser and his past 20 teams at the Mineral county school have won 147 games, lost 56 and played five ties for a winning mark of 72 per cent. Clark's 4-year record at Moorefield was 29-8-2 for 78 per cent.

Keyser, incidentally, has a 10-game victory streak left over from 1962 when the Golden Tornado blew over all opposition after losing the opener by one touchdown (13-7) to Martinsburg and climaxed a great season by knocking off Summersville to capture the state Class AA title.

Keyser's opening foe Sept. 6 is Dick Harmison's Bulldogs at Martinsburg.

Here are the records of tri-state area and CVAL coaches as a new campaign approaches:

Leroy Bolding is the new head coach at Southern High School, Oakland. Thomas Domen who coached one year (1962) had 3-6-0 record.

ONE of the most exciting moments at a race track comes when a horse runs away. We've seen it happen many times in the long history of thoroughbred racing at Fairgo and the remarkable part about it is that few of the horses who jumped the fences and knocked down railings were badly injured.

The other day, The Meadows harness track near Pittsburgh had its spectacular and the horse that caused all the excitement was Su Mac Lad, the world's finest trotter, who made a panic-stricken dash to near destruction.

The 9-year-old gelding whose lifetime earnings exceed $700,000 figured in a spectacular spill during a warm-up jog before 11,500 spectators.

Appearing for a specially-arranged race against a field of the nation's leading standardbreds, Su Mac Lad never made it to the gate. He was scratched after he suddenly bolted upon encountering the track's gasoline-powered vacuum cleaner.

Shying away from the machine, Su Mac Lad threw his substitute driver, Harold Dancer, leaped over the rail enclosing the inner side of the track and dashed recklessly an eighth of a mile to the finish line, dragging the sulky, one wheel astride the hub rail, behind him.

At the wire the wheel and axle hit the pole which serves as a standard for the photo finish lights. The impact richocheted Su Mac Lad into a supporting guy wire, shattered a sulky shaft, and hurled the horse and bike to the ground in a sickening crash of horseflesh and steel.

Miraculously, Su Mac Lad, after one quivering, unsuccessful attempt to rise, made it back to his feet and was led off the track by an attendant.

The horse suffered some broken ribs, a concussion and also had a couple of lacerations on his legs.

RON HOOVER will be making his debut as head coach when Bishop Guilfoyle High School of Altoona opens its season with Allegany High School's Campers here one week from tonight.

Hoover, who has been assistant grid mentor at the Pennsylvania school, succeeds John Hyder, who resigned to accept a grid coaching post at Cincinnati.

Seventy-five candidates reported for football at Bishop Guilfoyle which is one of the largest turnouts in many years.

BERKELEY Springs High School has lights for football this season and Ridgeley High School will be the Indians' initial nocturnal opponent September 13.

Fred P. "Chick" Weihl, who has served as treasurer of the West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission since 1946, made his debut as principal at Berkeley Springs this week.

Weihl, a former Wesleyan grid great, coached at Buckhannon, Wellsburg and Weston and was principal of the latter school for 28 years.

DR. BOBBY BROWN, former New York Yankee infielder and pinch-hitting star of the 1947 World Series, now is a heart specialist at Fort Worth, Texas.

We'll never forget the scene outside Yankee Stadium that year as the New York players left the park after the game.

Joe DiMaggio had a police escort to a limousine and the other players got away in a hurry but Bobby was caught by the mob and he seemed to get a big kick out of autographing baseballs, scorecards, etc., long after his teammates had departed.

AFL Club Acquires Ex-Giant Janerette

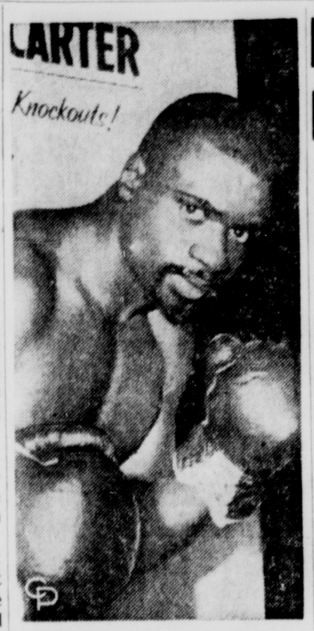

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (UPI)—The New York Jets of the American Football League Thursday signed Charlie Janerette, 250-pound two-way tackle who was released Wednesday by the New York Giants of the National League.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Jets said he was not sure whether he would use Janerette on offense or defense, but he said the newcomer would be used for a good portion of Sunday's pre - season game against the Boston Patriots at New Brunswick, N.J.

Janerette, who formerly played at Penn State, is starting his third season as a pro.

Yankees Recall 11 Farm Hands, Two To Report

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees Thursday announced the recall of 11 minor league farm hands but only two of the players will report to the club this year.

The remainder will rejoin the Yankees in spring training next February in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The two players to report next Tuesday in Detroit are catcher Jake Gibbs and infielder Pedro Gonzalez, who had been up with the Yankees twice earlier this year. Both will report after completing their International League season on Labor Day with Richmond.

Other players recalled include outfielder Ron Solomini, pitchers Luis Arroyo, Jack Cullen, Bob Meyer, and Roland Sheldon, all from Richmond; catcher Bill Madden, and pitchers George Haney and Howard Kitt of Augusta; and first baseman Mike Hegan of Idaho Falls.

Petersburg And Mountaineer Play Home Openers Saturday

Gaffney, Diamond, Pence Work Vikings, Green Bank Contest

Jim Gaffney has been named to referee the opening game of the football season Saturday at Petersburg, W. Va., between the Petersburg High School Vikings and Green Bank High School of Pocahontas County.

Robert E. Pence will be the umpire and John Diamond head linesman.

The game is scheduled for 2 p. m., EDT.

In another Saturday opener, Coach Stanley Sedmock's Mountaineer High School gridders will do battle with their Tucker County rivals, Parsons High School, at Thomas at 1:30 p. m.

Wayne Barr is at the helm for the fifth year at Petersburg. His 1962 team won four and lost six. Green Bank and the Vikings did not play last year.

Mountaineer High was undefeated last season, winning eight and playing two tie games with Sedmock as head coach for the second season. Parsons did not appear on Mountaineer's schedule in 1962.

Mountaineer High is at Davis this year as a result of the school at Thomas having been condemned. The football team, however, will play its home games at Thomas.

What amounted to a "summer re - run series" was completed yesterday at Stitcher Field, where the Loyal Order of Moose edged pennant - winning VFW, 4-3 in eight innings, to repeat as playoff champions of the Rocking Chair Softball League.

The hard - fought victory was the third in four games for the Moose in the best - of - five championship series. The Vets romped to an 8-0 victory in the second game, but the Moose put together 4-1 and 6-1 triumphs in the first and third contests.

Last season, the Vets won the regular season pennant for the fifth straight time only to be beaten by the Moose in the playoffs, and history has repeated itself. The 1962 finals were also decided in four games, Hayden Phillips winning all three for the Moose.

Rally In Seventh

Junior Brelsfod got the mound call for the Moose yesterday and pitched scoreless two - hit ball until the seventh, when the Vets rallied for two runs and sent the battle into overtime.

VFW went ahead with a run in the top of the eighth, but the Moose came back with a pair in their half of the frame.

Pinch - hitter Bill Thompson, batting for Brelsford, led off the eighth with a two - base rap. Following Donnie Madden's ground out, Johnny Price slashed a triple to send Thompson home with the tying tally.

Pete Cecil was intentionally passed, when Harry Widdows lofted a sacrifice fly to leftfield, scoring Price and enabling player-manager Herman Lewis' club to repeat as playoff titlists.

Eckard Raps Homer

Jimmy Eckard clouted a bases-empty homer for the Vets' first run in the seventh, and Bobby Mundeno scored when his single was misplayed into a three-base error. Price scored in similar fashion for the Moose in the sixth.

Pete Elliott, VFW righthander who had registered four straight shutouts, extended his consecutive scoreless inning string to 34 before the Moose reached him for a run in the fourth. Elliott, who walked one and struck out three, gave up ten hits in suffering only his second loss in 15 decisions.

Three Moose players checked in with two hits apiece. Price rapped a triple and single, Bob Keyser had a double and single and Mickey Cunningham chipped in with a pair of singles.

Share Four Safeties

Eckard and Mundeno accounted for four of the six hits off Brelsford. Eckard hit a single in addition to his round - tripper, and Mundeno clubbed a two -bagger and single.

Brelsford, who wound up with a 9-3 record for the campaign, failed to walk a batter while striking out five. He was the winning pitcher in Monday's opening playoff victory.

Lough's 34th Team — Excitement At Races

25th Year For Tack — Altoona's New Coach

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN the college football season opens next month Dana G. "Horse" Lough will be sending his 26th Potomac State College team into action.

Dean Lough coached at Chesapeake (Ohio) High School for six years before he came into this section in the early 1930s to take over the grid reins at Piedmont High School and thence at Keyser High for one season (1934) as successor to Bert Harbert, who became grid mentor at Allegany High School.

The former pro gridder-wrestler is really starting his 34th year as football coach and it would be his 37th if the war hadn't shut down the fall sport at Potomac State for three years — 1943, 1944 and 1945.

Lough's record of 99-94-5 is noteworthy when you consider the fact that Potomac State is a junior college and has tackled four-year colleges for many years.

When we asked "Horse" his age, he replied:

"Let's put it this way, I'm 63 in '63. I was born in January, 1900."

Then we asked the dean of area coaches if he was considering retirement.

"I'm too young to retire," was his answer.

Next in consecutive years of service as a gridiron mentor is Frederick "Tack" Clark, who is approaching his 25th season. An Allegany High alumnus, Clark made his coaching debut at Moorefield High School in 1939 and spent four years there before succeeding Bob Kyle at Keyser in 1943.

This is "Tack's" 21st season at Keyser and his past 20 teams at the Mineral county school have won 147 games, lost 56 and played five ties for a winning mark of 72 per cent. Clark's 4-year record at Moorefield was 29-8-2 for 78 per cent.

Keyser, incidentally, has a 10-game victory streak left over from 1962 when the Golden Tornado blew over all opposition after losing the opener by one touchdown (13-7) to Martinsburg and climaxed a great season by knocking off Summersville to capture the state Class AA title.

Keyser's opening foe Sept. 6 is Dick Harmison's Bulldogs at Martinsburg.

Here are the records of tri-state area and CVAL coaches as a new campaign approaches:

Leroy Bolding is the new head coach at Southern High School, Oakland. Thomas Domen who coached one year (1962) had 3-6-0 record.

ONE of the most exciting moments at a race track comes when a horse runs away. We've seen it happen many times in the long history of thoroughbred racing at Fairgo and the remarkable part about it is that few of the horses who jumped the fences and knocked down railings were badly injured.

The other day, The Meadows harness track near Pittsburgh had its spectacular and the horse that caused all the excitement was Su Mac Lad, the world's finest trotter, who made a panic-stricken dash to near destruction.

The 9-year-old gelding whose lifetime earnings exceed $700,000 figured in a spectacular spill during a warm-up jog before 11,500 spectators.

Appearing for a specially-arranged race against a field of the nation's leading standardbreds, Su Mac Lad never made it to the gate. He was scratched after he suddenly bolted upon encountering the track's gasoline-powered vacuum cleaner.

Shying away from the machine, Su Mac Lad threw his substitute driver, Harold Dancer, leaped over the rail enclosing the inner side of the track and dashed recklessly an eighth of a mile to the finish line, dragging the sulky, one wheel astride the hub rail, behind him.

At the wire the wheel and axle hit the pole which serves as a standard for the photo finish lights. The impact richocheted Su Mac Lad into a supporting guy wire, shattered a sulky shaft, and hurled the horse and bike to the ground in a sickening crash of horseflesh and steel.

Miraculously, Su Mac Lad, after one quivering, unsuccessful attempt to rise, made it back to his feet and was led off the track by an attendant.

The horse suffered some broken ribs, a concussion and also had a couple of lacerations on his legs.

RON HOOVER will be making his debut as head coach when Bishop Guilfoyle High School of Altoona opens its season with Allegany High School's Campers here one week from tonight.

Hoover, who has been assistant grid mentor at the Pennsylvania school, succeeds John Hyder, who resigned to accept a grid coaching post at Cincinnati.

Seventy-five candidates reported for football at Bishop Guilfoyle which is one of the largest turnouts in many years.

BERKELEY Springs High School has lights for football this season and Ridgeley High School will be the Indians' initial nocturnal opponent September 13.

Fred P. "Chick" Weihl, who has served as treasurer of the West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission since 1946, made his debut as principal at Berkeley Springs this week.

Weihl, a former Wesleyan grid great, coached at Buckhannon, Wellsburg and Weston and was principal of the latter school for 28 years.

Ed Weber is the new athletic director this year at the Morgan County school.

DR. BOBBY BROWN, former New York Yankee infielder and pinch-hitting star of the 1947 World Series, now is a heart specialist at Fort Worth, Texas.

We'll never forget the scene outside Yankee Stadium that year as the New York players left the park after the game.

Joe DiMaggio had a police escort to a limousine and the other players got away in a hurry but Bobby was caught by the mob and he seemed to get a big kick out of autographing baseballs, scorecards, etc., long after his teammates had departed.

AFL Club Acquires Ex-Giant Janerette

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (UPI)—The New York Jets of the American Football League Thursday signed Charlie Janerette, 250-pound two-way tackle who was released Wednesday by the New York Giants of the National League.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Jets said he was not sure whether he would use Janerette on offense or defense, but he said the newcomer would be used for a good portion of Sunday's pre - season game against the Boston Patriots at New Brunswick, N.J.

Janerette, who formerly played at Penn State, is starting his third season as a pro.

Yankees Recall 11 Farm Hands, Two To Report

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees Thursday announced the recall of 11 minor league farm hands but only two of the players will report to the club this year.

The remainder will rejoin the Yankees in spring training next February in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The two players to report next Tuesday in Detroit are catcher Jake Gibbs and infielder Pedro Gonzalez, who had been up with the Yankees twice earlier this year. Both will report after completing their International League season on Labor Day with Richmond.

Other players recalled include outfielder Ron Solomini, pitchers Luis Arroyo, Jack Cullen, Bob Meyer, and Roland Sheldon, all from Richmond; catcher Bill Madden, and pitchers George Haney and Howard Kitt of Augusta; and first baseman Mike Hegan of Idaho Falls.

Petersburg And Mountaineer Play Home Openers Saturday

Gaffney, Diamond, Pence Work Vikings, Green Bank Contest

Jim Gaffney has been named to referee the opening game of the football season Saturday at Petersburg, W. Va., between the Petersburg High School Vikings and Green Bank High School of Pocahontas County.

Robert E. Pence will be the umpire and John Diamond head linesman.

The game is scheduled for 2 p. m., EDT.

In another Saturday opener, Coach Stanley Sedmock's Mountaineer High School gridders will do battle with their Tucker County rivals, Parsons High School, at Thomas at 1:30 p. m.

Wayne Barr is at the helm for the fifth year at Petersburg. His 1962 team won four and lost six. Green Bank and the Vikings did not play last year.

Mountaineer High was undefeated last season, winning eight and playing two tie games with Sedmock as head coach for the second season. Parsons did not appear on Mountaineer's schedule in 1962.

Mountaineer High is at Davis this year as a result of the school at Thomas having been condemned. The football team, however, will play its home games at Thomas.

Ralston And Emerson Will Open Title Bids At Forest Hills Today

National Net Champs Of 28 • Countries Vie

Billie Jean Moffitt And Maria Bueno In Matches Today

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Dennis Ralston, new golden boy of American tennis, and solid Roy Emerson of Australia open their title bids against a pair of teen-agers Friday in the national championships.

Ralston, 21, of Bakersfield, Calif. star of the recent Davis Cup victory over Mexico, faces Walter Johnson, 11th ranked junior from Hollywood, Fla., while Emerson goes against Chauncey Steele III of Cambridge, Mass. Johnson and Steele both are 19.

Wimbledon champions Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., and Margaret Smith of Australia, top-seeded in their respective divisions, are idle as the tournament proper gets under way at the West Side Tennis Club.

The last two days—Wednesday and Thursday—were spent in qualifying matches which reduced the internationally flavored men's field from 178 to a workable 128. Sixty-four players fought for 16 berths. National champions of 28 different countries are competing.

A top class international duel Wednesday sends Ken Fletcher, No. 5 seeded player from Australia, against Premjit Lal, the handsome Indian Davis Cup ace whose strokes are as stylish as any in the game.

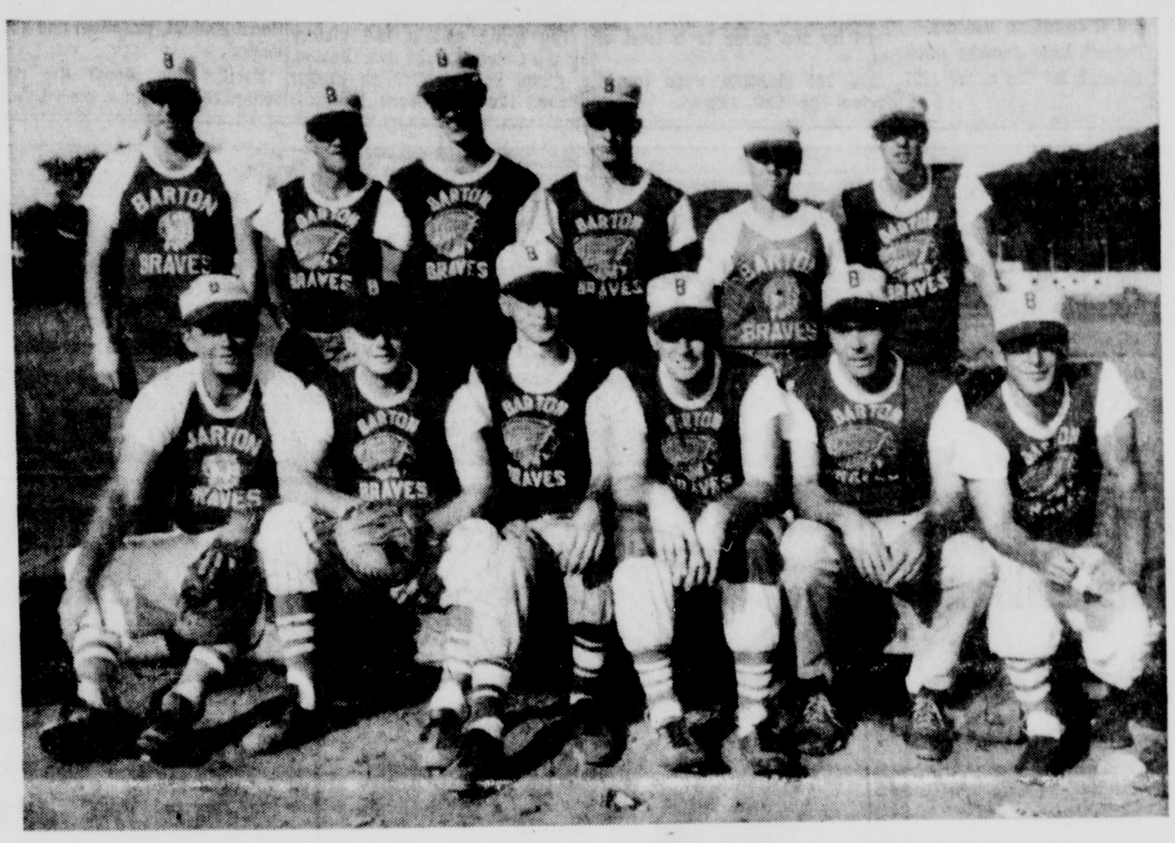

Billie Jean Moffitt, the vivacious chatterbox who upset Miss Smith in the first round of the 1962 Wimbledon tournament, opens against Almut Sturm of Germany while Maria Bueno of Brazil, winner here in 1959, takes on Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis.

Miss Moffitt is seeded No. 3, Miss Bueno No. 4.

McKinley, who swept through the Wimbledon field this year without loss of a set, makes his debut Saturday, playing Orlando Zuleta of Ecuador.

Miss Smith, a strapping girl who lifts weights and works out in a gymnasium to keep in shape, probably won't get into action until Sunday.

Mrs. Yola Ramirez Ochoa of Mexico became the first player to advance in the championship tournament when she crushed Sandra Zeese of Huntington, N.Y., 6-0, 6-2.

Monbouquette Beats Yankees For 18th Win

Passed Ball In 9th Decides Game, 4-3

NEW YORK (AP) — A passed ball by catcher Elston Howard in the ninth inning enabled Eddie Bressoud to cross the plate with the tie-breaking run as the Boston Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees 4-3 Thursday to salvage the finale of the four-game series.

Howard's lapse decided a pitching duel between Boston's Bill Monbouquette and New York's Stan Williams, the Red Sox righthander going on to register his 18th triumph of the season.

Bressoud ignited the winning rally with a single leading off the ninth and raced to third on another single by Russ Nixon. Monbouquette struck out. The count on Dick Williams, a pinch hitter, was 1-1 when the batter squared off as if to bunt William's third delivery. The pitch was low, however, and Howard allowed the ball to whiz by. Bressoud scoring as the ball rolled to the stands behind home plate.

Corgs Defeat Hyndman, 8-3, To Stay Alive

Jack Lowery Raps Three-Run Homer

Spearheaded by Jack Lowery's three-run homer, Corriganville scored seven runs in the first inning yesterday and went on to record an 8-3 victory over Hyndman to stay alive in the County Softball League championship finals.

Yesterday's contest at Corriganville was the third in the best-of-five title series. Hyndman won the first two by scores of 3-1 and 5-1. The fourth game is set for today at Hyndman, beginning at 6:15 p.m.

Hyndman, solving the offerings of Art Raygor for only six hits, picked up two runs in the fourth and added its final tally in the sixth.

Don Rose smacked a double and single, Art Raygor came through with a pair of hits, and Gary Butts tripled for the winners.

MVC Slaps $1,000 Fine On Wichita

Paid Unauthorized Expenses To Cager

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Wichita University received a stiff penalty from the Missouri Valley Conference Thursday for paying unauthorized expenses in recruiting a basketball player.

Valley Commissioner Norvall Neve slapped a $1,000 fine and a conditional two-year ban on postseason competition on the university for the infraction.

The post-season prohibition is against "competition other than NCAA sponsored and sanctioned events."

Bob Donaldson, coordinator of athletics at the university, said the university paid expenses for a New York city man who accompanied a player to the campus here in 1962.

The conference rule on this states that "no member institution may finance transportation costs incurred by relatives or friends of a prospective student athlete to visit the campus or elsewhere."

Donaldson identified the man as Fred Stegman of New York City and the player as Gerald Davis, a 6-foot-9 player from Brooklyn, who will be a sophomore at the university this fall.

Davis and Stegman visited the campus here in April, 1962, and Davis enrolled as a student here in the fall term of 1962.

The post-season prohibition is against "competition other than NCAA sponsored and sanctioned events." Neve also refused to say what event or events might be included in that category. Most major post-season football games and basketball tournaments have NCAA sanction.

The restrictive clause of the penalty becomes effective this school year.

Curtis To File Motion Today For New Trial In Butts' Suit

Former Coach Won Verdict On Aug. 20 Against The Post

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA (AP)—Attorneys for Curtis Publishing Co. moved Thursday for a new trial of the $10 million libel suit brought by Wally Butts, former Georgia football coach who won a verdict against the firm last week.

A motion for a new trial was filed in Newnan with U.S. Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan shortly after he stayed execution of a $3.06 million verdict awarded Butts.

Numerous grounds were cited by Curtis attorneys in the retrial motion. The 31-page document claimed errors in the trial of the case, over which Morgan presided.

A court attache said the motion would be filed Friday with the district clerk in Atlanta. It was not made available in Newnan, where Morgan was holding court Thursday.

Morgan's earlier order held up any payment to Butts until final disposition of the motion by Curtis.

Butts won a verdict Aug. 20 from a 12-man jury that the Curtis-owned Saturday Evening Post libeled him with an article charging he and Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama rigged a football game last fall.

In his stay order, Morgan had said Curtis also would file a motion for a "judgment notwithstanding the verdict"—or a ruling by the judge in favor of the publishing firm.

Morgan granted Curtis 15 days after the official record is made available in which to file a brief supporting its motion.

The 12-day trial climaxed five months of intermittent controversy after the Post in a March 23 article charged Butts fed data on his team to Bryant nine days before the Georgia-Alabama game of 1962.

Alabama won 35-0 in the season opener for both teams and the Post said Butts and Bryant rigged the game.

Both men filed libel suits for $10 million. Bryant's suit is yet to be tried in Birmingham, Ala.

Peters Wins 11th Straight Over Indians

Ties Rigney Record In Sox 7-2 Victory

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Gary Peters of the Chicago White Sox won his 11th straight game Thursday night to equal a club record when he turned back the Cleveland Indians, 7-2, with a six-hitter.

Peters, working with only two days rest, tied the White Sox record for consecutive pitching victories set by John Rigney in 1939. The young lefthander is now 16-5 for the season.

Peters also starred offensively for the Sox as he banged an eighth inning home run to provide two insurance runs.

The Indians scored first on a two-run homer by outfielder Vic Davilillo in the first inning.

The Sox countered with two runs in the third on two hits and a walk.

Chicago broke the game open in the eighth inning. Floyd Robinson opened the frame with a single and Pete Ward followed with another single. Pinchhitter Charlie Maxwell and Ron Hansen brought in two runs with a single.

A wild pitch produced another run and then Peters powered a two-run homer.

Hank Aguirre Wins 2-Hit Contest, 6-1

DETROIT (AP)—Hank Aguirre pitched no-hit ball for seven innings before his former teammate Frank Kostro broke the spell in the eighth as the Detroit Tigers beat Los Angeles 6-1 for their eighth straight victory Thursday.

Kostro, leading off the eighth, drilled a liner to center for the first hit of the Tiger left hander. The ball bounced in front of Billy Bruton and skipped past for a triple. Jim Piersall then singled home Kostro with a looper to right.

The two-hitter was the third for Aguirre in 25 days.

Ken Venturi, Johnston Lead Denver Open

Post 4-Under-Par 66s For Opening Round

DENVER (UPI) — Two "hungry" veteran professional golfers, Ken Venturi and Bill Johnston, each seeking his first tourney victory in three years, fashioned four-under par 66s Thursday to grab the first round lead in the $35,000 Denver Open by one stroke.

Venturi, 32, who plays out of Crystal River, Fla., and calls San Francisco home, blazed around the front nine in 30 strokes, five under par, and was six under par through 16 holes. But he bogeyed the final two holes, the only two greens Venturi missed on approaches the entire round.

Johnson, 38, Phoenix, Ariz., said he played better golf "than I know how" in putting together a 31 on the front nine. He missed only one green all day, running past the 10th, which he bogeyed.

One stroke back of the leaders at 67 were Rex Baxter Jr., Amarillo, Tex., who led this tournament the first two rounds last year; Bill Eggers, Henderson, Nev., and Lionel Hebert, Lafayette, La.

Another stroke back were Duff Lawrence, Studio City, Calif.; Juan Rodriques, Dorado Beach, Puerto Rico; Rod Funseth, Spokane, Wash.; Bob Goetz, Tulsa, Okla.; Dave Hill, the 1961 champion, Jackson, Mich.; Tommy Morrow, Shreveport, La.; Bob Duden, Portland, Ore.; Jacky Cupit, Corona, Calif.; and Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y.

Venturi, beset with injuries the past two years, last one a championship in 1960 — the Milwaukee Open. Johnston's last victory was the same year, in the Utah Open.

Ralston And Emerson Will Open Title Bids At Forest Hills Today

Billie Jean Moffitt And Maria Bueno In Matches Today

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Dennis Ralston, new golden boy of American tennis, and solid Roy Emerson of Australia open their title bids against a pair of teen-agers Friday in the national championships.

Ralston, 21, of Bakersfield, Calif. star of the recent Davis Cup victory over Mexico, faces Walter Johnson, 11th ranked junior from Hollywood, Fla., while Emerson goes against Chauncey Steele III of Cambridge, Mass. Johnson and Steele both are 19.

Wimbledon champions Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., and Margaret Smith of Australia, top-seeded in their respective divisions, are idle as the tournament proper gets under way at the West Side Tennis Club.

The last two days—Wednesday and Thursday—were spent in qualifying matches which reduced the internationally flavored men's field from 178 to a workable 128. Sixty-four players fought for 16 berths. National champions of 28 different countries are competing.

A top class international duel Wednesday sends Ken Fletcher, No. 5 seeded player from Australia, against Premjit Lal, the handsome Indian Davis Cup ace whose strokes are as stylish as any in the game.

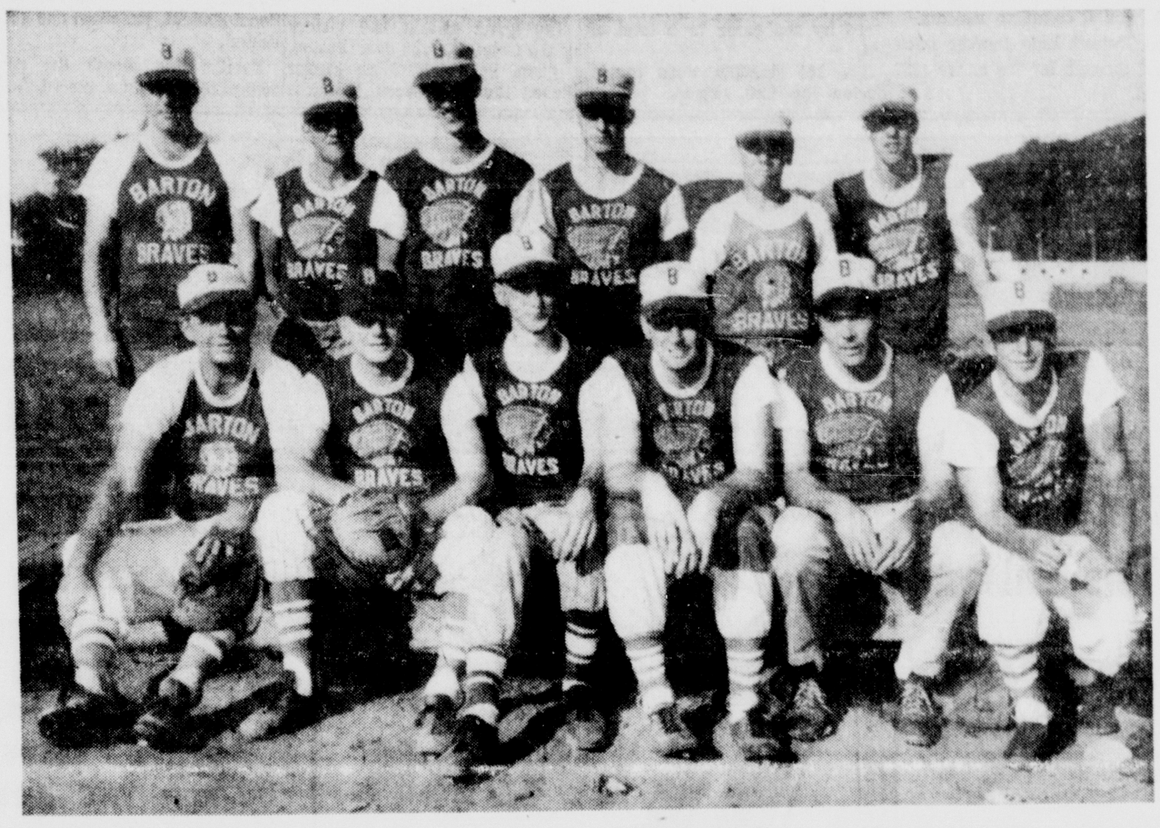

Billie Jean Moffitt, the vivacious chatterbox who upset Miss Smith in the first round of the 1962 Wimbledon tournament, opens against Almut Sturm of Germany while Maria Bueno of Brazil, winner here in 1959, takes on Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis.

Miss Moffitt is seeded No. 3, Miss Bueno No. 4.

McKinley, who swept through the Wimbledon field this year without loss of a set, makes his debut Saturday, playing Orlando Zuleta of Ecuador.

Miss Smith, a strapping girl who lifts weights and works out in a gymnasium to keep in shape, probably won't get into action until Sunday.

Mrs. Yola Ramirez Ochoa of Mexico became the first player to advance in the championship tournament when she crushed Sandra Zeese of Huntington, N.Y., 6-0, 6-2.

Monbouquette Beats Yankees For 18th Win

Passed Ball In 9th Decides Game, 4-3

NEW YORK (AP) — A passed ball by catcher Elston Howard in the ninth inning enabled Eddie Bressoud to cross the plate with the tie-breaking run as the Boston Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees 4-3 Thursday to salvage the finale of the four-game series.

Howard's lapse decided a pitching duel between Boston's Bill Monbouquette and New York's Stan Williams, the Red Sox righthander going on to register his 18th triumph of the season.

Bressoud ignited the winning rally with a single leading off the ninth and raced to third on another single by Russ Nixon. Monbouquette struck out. The count on Dick Williams, a pinch hitter, was 1-1 when the batter squared off as if to bunt William's third delivery. The pitch was low, however, and Howard allowed the ball to whiz by. Bressoud scoring as the ball rolled to the stands behind home plate.

Don Norton Injured

BOULEVARD, Calif. (UPI) — Don Norton, the San Diego Chargers' No. 1 end last year, apparently will miss the 1963 American Football League season, because of a back injury coach Sid Gillman disclosed Thursday.

Norton, an All-American at the University of Iowa, suffered a ruptured disc Tuesday while lifting weights, Gilman said. He probably will have to undergo surgery at Mercy Hospital.

Corgs Defeat Hyndman, 8-3, To Stay Alive

Jack Lowery Raps Three-Run Homer

Spearheaded by Jack Lowery's three-run homer, Corriganville scored seven runs in the first inning yesterday and went on to record an 8-3 victory over Hyndman to stay alive in the County Softball League championship finals.

Yesterday's contest at Corriganville was the third in the best-of-five title series. Hyndman won the first two by scores of 3-1 and 5-1. The fourth game is set for today at Hyndman, beginning at 6:15 p.m.

Hyndman, solving the offerings of Art Raygor for only six hits, picked up two runs in the fourth and added its final tally in the sixth.

Don Rose smacked a double and single, Art Raygor came through with a pair of hits, and Gary Butts tripled for the winners.

Bill Clayton obtained two singles, and Ells Lambert swatted a three-bagger for Hyndman.

Lassie Stakes Attracts Dozen

Sari's Song 6-5 Choice Saturday

CHICAGO (AP) — The $100,000-added Arlington Lassie Stakes, held for the first time Saturday under new conditions that will make it the richest race of its kind in the world, is expected to draw an even dozen 2-year-old fillies.

The stout favorite is J. Kel Houssels' Sari's Song, a 6-5 choice in the 6½-furlong race that will gross $186,355 with 12 starters.

Bill Shoemaker again will ride Sari's Song, carrying 119 pounds—the weight for the entire field.

Disqualification Results In $1,730 Aqueduct Double

NEW YORK (AP) — Mid Tea Time won the first race at Aqueduct Thursday through a disqualification and helped produce a $1,730-for-$2 daily double when Silver Suit captured the second race.

Ismael Valenzuela rode Mrs. E. E. Robbins' Mid Tea Time, who paid $125.80 after being moved up from second to first upon the disqualification of Sacred River. The latter, a 10-1 shot ridden by Larry Adams, was disqualified for bumping Hammered on the turn. Hammered finished fourth.

Silver Suit, ridden by Larry Gilligan, paid $57.70 straight.

Operation Successful

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Dr. Robert Bailey, who performed the surgery on Pat Studstill's left knee Wednesday, at University Hospital said Thursday the operation was a complete success.

The Detroit Lion flanker back is still through for the entire 1963 season.

N. L. Shutout Record Upped To 164

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The records committee of the Baseball Writers' Association Thursday voted to revise the National League's single season shutout record upward by one game to a total of 164.

The 164 shutouts were tossed during the 1908 season.

The committee said investigation of the 1908 season revealed that one game had been omitted by the 1909 version of the "Reach Official Baseball Guide."

The game was a 14-0 victory by the Chicago Cubs over Boston, a game in which Chick Fraser pitched the first seven scoreless innings and Ed Reulbach finished.

As of Sunday Aug. 25, National League pitchers were keeping pace with the old 163 shutout pace of 1908, but discovery of the additional shutout, put them one game behind.

Earlier this month the rules committee revised a record downward. That involved John Nabors, who had been charged with 20 consecutive defeats with the 1916 Philadelphia Athletics. The committee ruled he actually had been tagged with "only" 19 straight defeats.

Tony Lema, the handsome golfer, has won checks in all 21 of his starts this year and now has a streak of 30 in-the-money tournaments.

Lassie Stakes Attracts Dozen

Sari's Song 6-5 Choice Saturday

CHICAGO (AP) — The $100,000-added Arlington Lassie Stakes, held for the first time Saturday under new conditions that will make it the richest race of its kind in the world, is expected to draw an even dozen 2-year-old fillies.

The stout favorite is J. Kel Houssels' Sari's Song, a 6-5 choice in the 6½-furlong race that will gross $186,355 with 12 starters.

The Lassie, formerly a $50,000-added stakes, now surpasses the Gardenia Stakes at Garden State Park as the richest event for juvenile fillies.

Sari's Song, who arrived from California after establishing herself champion at Hollywood Park, routed Chicago rivals in the Princess Pat Stakes on Aug. 14 with a six-length victory.

Bill Shoemaker again will ride Sari's Song, carrying 119 pounds—the weight for the entire field.

Disqualification Results In $1,730 Aqueduct Double

NEW YORK (AP) — Mid Tea Time won the first race at Aqueduct Thursday through a disqualification and helped produce a $1,730-for-$2 daily double when Silver Suit captured the second race.

Ismael Valenzuela rode Mrs. E. E. Robbins' Mid Tea Time, who paid $125.80 after being moved up from second to first upon the disqualification of Sacred River. The latter, a 10-1 shot ridden by Larry Adams, was disqualified for bumping Hammered on the turn. Hammered finished fourth.

Silver Suit, ridden by Larry Gilligan, paid $57.70 straight.

Operation Successful

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Dr. Robert Bailey, who performed the surgery on Pat Studstill's left knee Wednesday, at University Hospital said Thursday the operation was a complete success.

The Detroit Lion flanker back is still through for the entire 1963 season.

N. L. Shutout Record Upped To 164

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The records committee of the Baseball Writers' Association Thursday voted to revise the National League's single season shutout record upward by one game to a total of 164.

The 164 shutouts were tossed during the 1908 season.

The committee said investigation of the 1908 season revealed that one game had been omitted by the 1909 version of the "Reach Official Baseball Guide."

The game was a 14-0 victory by the Chicago Cubs over Boston, a game in which Chick Fraser pitched the first seven scoreless innings and Ed Reulbach finished.

As of Sunday Aug. 25, National League pitchers were keeping pace with the old 163 shutout pace of 1908, but discovery of the additional shutout, put them one game behind.

Earlier this month the rules committee revised a record downward. That involved John Nabors, who had been charged with 20 consecutive defeats with the 1916 Philadelphia Athletics. The committee ruled he actually had been tagged with "only" 19 straight defeats.

Tony Lema, the handsome golfer, has won checks in all 21 of his starts this year and now has a streak of 30 in-the-money tournaments.

City Approves Benefit Bill For Employes

The Mayor and Council Monday passed an order which provides for full coverage of health and welfare costs for city employes who will retire after September 1.

The bill, submitted by Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill, calls for full coverage of Maryland Hospital Service and Maryland Medical Service (Blue Cross and Blue Shield) by the city.

Council last week adopted an order providing such coverage of city employes in lieu of a pay increase. The action extended the protection to cover employes who will retire during the fiscal year. It is not retroactive.

Commissioner Hill has prepared statistics, available at his office, which reveal that the health and welfare benefits extended by the city will in most cases actually increase the take-home pay of employes.

The bi-weekly pay, except for the person with no other dependents, will average between $12 and $14 more per pay, Commissioner Hill points out.

Employes may secure copies of Hill's explanation, or have determined their actual amount of take-home pay, from the Finance Department office. The first benefits of the full-paid insurance will be reflected in the checks which will be distributed September 13.

Council also authorized the comptroller to issue checks Friday for the pay period ended August 24. He also was authorized to issue a check in the amount of $45.22 to Madeline Fanelli for overpayment of 1962 real estate taxes.

Sacramento, Calif., was named after the Blessed Sacrament. The Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament is the city's major church today.

City Approves Benefit Bill For Employes

The Mayor and Council Monday passed an order which provides for full coverage of health and welfare costs for city employes who will retire after September 1.

The bill, submitted by Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill, calls for full coverage of Maryland Hospital Service and Maryland Medical Service (Blue Cross and Blue Shield) by the city.

Council last week adopted an order providing such coverage of city employes in lieu of a pay increase. The action extended the protection to cover employes who will retire during the fiscal year. It is not retroactive.

Commissioner Hill has prepared statistics, available at his office, which reveal that the health and welfare benefits extended by the city will in most cases actually increase the take-home pay of employes.

The bi-weekly pay, except for the person with no other dependents, will average between $12 and $14 more per pay, Commissioner Hill points out.

Employes may secure copies of Hill's explanation, or have determined their actual amount of take-home pay, from the Finance Department office. The first benefits of the full-paid insurance will be reflected in the checks which will be distributed September 13.

Council also authorized the comptroller to issue checks Friday for the pay period ended August 24. He also was authorized to issue a check in the amount of $45.22 to Madeline Fanelli for overpayment of 1962 real estate taxes.

Sacramento, Calif., was named after the Blessed Sacrament. The Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament is the city's major church today.

Zoning Board Gives Approval To Cycle Shop

Hemmis To Build At Pike Site

The Allegany County Zoning Appeals Board yesterday afternoon gave Joseph W. Hemmis, 111 West Second Street, permission to open a motorcycle sales, service and repair business along the northerly side of Baltimore Pike some 150 yards west of Hinkle Road.

Mr. Hemmis, former U. S. and Canadian motorcycle hill climb champion, testified that on May 16 he purchased the building which had been used as a grocery and gas station with light automobile repair work.

He began building an addition on the westerly side of the building. When informed that a building permit and zoning certificate were needed, Mr. Hemmis made application for both at the Court House but was turned down by C. Lee Renaud, county planning director, on July 16. Work then stopped.

Charges Error

Mr. Hemmis appealed to the zoning appeals board charging administrative error by Mr. Renaud.

Harold E. Naughton, Mr. Hemmis' attorney, first called as a witness B. F. Hartman, a retired Methodist minister who formerly operated a grocery and gas station featuring light repair work in the building in question.

Mr. Hartman said that he bought the store in 1945 and that Leslie Hinkle had operated a store and gas station there for a good many years before him. In the horse-and-buggy days, horses were watered at the spot from a spring nearby.

The first witness said he remodeled the building in 1948, adding a second floor apartment. In 1959 he closed the business when the State Roads Commission tore his own house down across the road in the course of building the divided highway up the westerly side of Martin Mountain. His automobile repairing equipment remained on the premises until the business was sold in May to Mr. Hemmis.

No Meeting Room

Mr. Hemmis told the appeals board that he had no plans for a meeting room on the premises which would encourage motorcyclists to congregate there. He also said that he had no plans to have gasoline pumps reinstalled on the premises. The addition will be used strictly for a showroom and the old building for a repair shop.

Mr. Renaud testified that he rejected the application because Mr. Hemmis' proposal constituted a change of business use and the building was being enlarged. Under terms of the county's interim zoning ordinance, effective since November 1961, this area has been zoned as residential.

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, who lives about one and one-quarter mile east of the Hemmis site, said that he had no objection to the granting of the permit. Speaking as vice president of the Route 40 Association, Dr. Skitarelic said this organization had no objection to the motorcycle business.

Neighbors Approve

A petition signed by 26 near neighbors to the building was submitted. These property owners, including those living on both sides of the business, said they had no objection.

William R. Carscaden, serving as attorney to the zoning appeals board, informed the board that there were two parts to the question. He said that there is no doubt that Mr. Hemmis can use the existing building for his proposed motorcycle business.

The construction of an addition to a building which constitutes a non-conforming use was a violation of the interim zoning ordinance, Mr. Carscaden added. However, he noted that the board had the authority to allow the extension of a non-conforming use. He stressed that Mr. Renaud had acted properly in turning down the application.

The two board members present for yesterday's hearing agreed verbally at its conclusion that Mr. Hemmis should be allowed to complete the improvement he planned. Everett G. Partridge, chairman, and Ralph G. Cover said they would have a written opinion in the near future. Wilbur Johnson, the other board member, was absent.

Zimmer Urges Students To Stay In School

2,000 Graduates To Get Letters

Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of Allegany Community College, has joined in the campaign to encourage young people to remain in school and not become dropouts.

Last week, J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the Allegany County Board of Education, announced the appointment of a county-wide anti-dropout committee. Louis A. Fatkin, magistrate for juvenile causes, has accepted the chairmanship of this committee and Dr. Zimmer is one of its members.

The committee was formed in response to a personal letter from President John F. Kennedy.

At yesterday's meeting of the board of trustees of the college, Dr. Zimmer circulated copies of a letter he is sending to more than 2,000 1962 and 1963 graduates of Allegany County public and Catholic high schools.

The college president notes in his letter that President Kennedy has asked for a special effort to encourage young people to continue their education and stay in school. That last half of his letter is meant for those high schools whose plans for college this fall are not complete.

It reads as follows:

"You know that the Community College offers the first two years of a university program, and that you can transfer to a university as a junior. If you are interested in a technology program, related to engineering, we have two which are cooperative work-study. In these programs your time is divided between the college and a job. You actually may earn over $3,000 while a student in this program. Our classes are available from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. You may be a full-time or a part-time student.

"If finances are a problem, you may qualify for a National Defense Education Act student loan, which our college is now able to provide.

"We will be happy to discuss with you a program of studies through the dates of registration, September 11 and 12. Please visit the college. I would be delighted to talk with you concerning your education plans. To assure my availability to meet with you, telephone for an appointment. You are always welcome."

Schools Told Not To Disobey Prayer Ruling

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr. state superintendent of schools, has notified county school superintendents that attempts to circumvent the Supreme Court ban on school prayer would be improper.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, said he has not yet received the letter from Dr. Pullen, which was read at the meeting of the State Board of Education Wednesday afternoon in Baltimore.

Dr. Pullen's letter stated:

"In essence the decision simply says that no agency or agent of government may authorize, direct, or require the reading of the Bible or the saying of a prayer as part of devotional exercises in the public schools."

Dr. Pullen said he would not comment on various alternative suggestions for "voluntary" prayer, silent meditation of Christmas celebrations until the problem arose, but added: "Any attempt to circumvent the decision of the Supreme Court by indirection or chicanery would be improper and not in the spirit of the administration of the public schools of Maryland."

Education In Scotland Explained To Kiwanians

A verbal picture of higher education in Scotland was presented to members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at Central YMCA by Miss Christine W. Worsley, 19-year-old girl from Dundee, Scotland.

Miss Worsley, niece of Mrs. Molly Smith, Pleasant Valley Road, will do practice teaching in physical education during September at Fort Hill High School.

She will return to Aberdeen, Scotland, in October to complete her third and final year at Dunfermline College of Physical Education, the only college of this type for women in Scotland.

Dunfermline, which has an enrollment of only 200 students, accepts only about 75 first-year students each year.

Miss Worsley explained that Dunfermline was established originally in the town of that name as a result of a grant from the late great philanthropist, Andrew Carnegie.

During World War II, the college facilities were needed for another purpose and the school was moved to Aberdeen, taking over a wing of a hospital. By 1966, it is expected that the college will move once again to more modern facilities near Edinburgh.

Miss Worsley explained that she has engaged in practice teaching during each of her three years in college. She started out as one of a group of six student teachers working with very young children.

The physical education program includes gymnastics and dancing as well as games. Physical education teachers are encouraged to use physical therapy in correction of minor ailments among pupils, particularly posture problems.

Miss Worsley concluded her remarks by showing a series of slides taken during travels around Scotland and elsewhere in Europe.

Judge Orders Hearing For FSC Teachers

Will Investigate Reasons For Dismissal

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Circuit Court judge has ordered a full hearing into charges that four teachers at Frostburg State College were forced out of their jobs last June.

Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast said the college president, R. Bowen Hardesty, had a perfect right not to renew the contracts of the four instructors, but that the teachers had a right to know why they were being dismissed.

The four teachers contended they were dismissed because they wanted to use several controversial novels including "Lady Chatterly's Lover" for classroom instruction. Hardesty maintained the instructors were dismissed because they were immature.

Judge Prendergast ruled that although Hardesty could retain or dismiss instructors at his discretion, the teachers still had a right to know why they were being dropped. Judge Prendergast also ordered a full hearing into charges that Hardesty "used intimidation on them (the four teachers) while they were on the faculty at the college."

Coal-To-Gasoline Process Federal Contract Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A giant step toward the commercial application of a coal-to-gasoline process will be taken Friday with the signing of a federal contract with Consolidation Coal Co.

The $9.99 million contract will be signed by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall for design, construction and operation of a coal-to-gasoline pilot plant to be located at Cresap, near Moundsville, W. Va.

Udall cautioned that the project is an experimental one which offers hope, but not certainty, of showing a way to produce gasoline from coal at economical competitive costs.

"We believe this type of federal risk-taking in the hopes of substantially expanding the market for coal is what the Congress desired when it established the Office of Coal Research," he said.

The Office of Coal Research, which began operations in 1961, will supervise the project for the Department of the Interior. Under the contract, Consolidation Coal will build and operate the Cresap plant which will be designed to convert approximately 24 tons of coal per day into gasoline.

The plant will be operated to determine the process and equipment alternatives which could enable a full-scale plant to be designed and built as a commercial venture by a private enterprise.

Samuel G. Lasky, acting director of coal research, estimated that the pilot plant will result in addition of $4 million to $5 million to the local Cresap economy in the form of wages, benefits and locally - purchased materials over a three-year period.

If a full-scale commercial plant consuming 10,000 tons of coal a day is built as a result of the project, he said, it might provide temporary employment for more than 1,000 construction workers for two to three years plus permanent employment of about 1,200 miners, operators, maintenance personnel, clerical workers and supervisors when in operation. The commercial operation would represent an annual payroll of about $7.5 million.

All patent and proprietary rights originating during the time of pilot-plant design and operation will belong to the government and will be in the public domain, Udall said. Background patents, owned by the original developers as a result of their initial work, will be made available to the public at moderate cost.

Zoning Board Gives Approval To Cycle Shop

Hemmis To Build At Pike Site

The Allegany County Zoning Appeals Board yesterday afternoon gave Joseph W. Hemmis, 111 West Second Street, permission to open a motorcycle sales, service and repair business along the northerly side of Baltimore Pike some 150 yards west of Hinkle Road.

Mr. Hemmis, former U. S. and Canadian motorcycle hill climb champion, testified that on May 16 he purchased the building which had been used as a grocery and gas station with light automobile repair work.

He began building an addition on the westerly side of the building. When informed that a building permit and zoning certificate were needed, Mr. Hemmis made application for both at the Court House but was turned down by C. Lee Renaud, county planning director, on July 16. Work then stopped.

Charges Error

Mr. Hemmis appealed to the zoning appeals board charging administrative error by Mr. Renaud.

Harold E. Naughton, Mr. Hemmis' attorney, first called as a witness B. F. Hartman, a retired Methodist minister who formerly operated a grocery and gas station featuring light repair work in the building in question.

Mr. Hartman said that he bought the store in 1945 and that Leslie Hinkle had operated a store and gas station there for a good many years before him. In the horse-and-buggy days, horses were watered at the spot from a spring nearby.

The first witness said he remodeled the building in 1948, adding a second floor apartment. In 1959 he closed the business when the State Roads Commission tore his own house down across the road in the course of building the divided highway up the westerly side of Martin Mountain. His automobile repairing equipment remained on the premises until the business was sold in May to Mr. Hemmis.

No Meeting Room

Mr. Hemmis told the appeals board that he had no plans for a meeting room on the premises which would encourage motorcyclists to congregate there. He also said that he had no plans to have gasoline pumps reinstalled on the premises. The addition will be used strictly for a showroom and the old building for a repair shop.

Mr. Renaud testified that he rejected the application because Mr. Hemmis' proposal constituted a change of business use and the building was being enlarged. Under terms of the county's interim zoning ordinance, effective since November 1961, this area has been zoned as residential.

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, who lives about one and one-quarter mile east of the Hemmis site, said that he had no objection to the granting of the permit. Speaking as vice president of the Route 40 Association, Dr. Skitarelic said this organization had no objection to the motorcycle business.

Dunfermline, which has an enrollment of only 200 students, accepts only about 75 first-year students each year.

Miss Worsley explained that Dunfermline was established originally in the town of that name as a result of a grant from the late great philanthropist, Andrew Carnegie.

During World War II, the college facilities were needed for another purpose and the school was moved to Aberdeen, taking over a wing of a hospital. By 1966, it is expected that the college will move once again to more modern facilities near Edinburgh.

Miss Worsley explained that she has engaged in practice teaching during each of her three years in college. She started out as one of a group of six student teachers working with very young children.

The physical education program includes gymnastics and dancing as well as games. Physical education teachers are encouraged to use physical therapy in correction of minor ailments among pupils, particularly posture problems.

Miss Worsley concluded her remarks by showing a series of slides taken during travels around Scotland and elsewhere in Europe.

Judge Orders Hearing For FSC Teachers

Will Investigate Reasons For Dismissal

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Circuit Court judge has ordered a full hearing into charges that four teachers at Frostburg State College were forced out of their jobs last June.

Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast said the college president, R. Bowen Hardesty, had a perfect right not to renew the contracts of the four instructors, but that the teachers had a right to know why they were being dismissed.

The four teachers contended they were dismissed because they wanted to use several controversial novels including "Lady Chatterly's Lover" for classroom instruction. Hardesty maintained the instructors were dismissed because they were immature.

Judge Prendergast ruled that although Hardesty could retain or dismiss instructors at his discretion, the teachers still had a right to know why they were being dropped. Judge Prendergast also ordered a full hearing into charges that Hardesty "used intimidation on them (the four teachers) while they were on the faculty at the college."

Bucy To Head Publicity In MD Campaign

Edgar L. Bucy, 208 Union Street, a member of the Cumberland Fire Department, has been named publicity chairman of the 1963 Muscular Dystrophy drive in Allegany and Garrett Counties.

For a number of years he has been active in the drive, and with the assistance of Boy Scouts in Cumberland has distributed campaign canisters in local business places. Volunteer firemen also assist in the drive each year.

Mr. Bucy received a letter from Gordon D. Graham, director of public information of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America Inc. New York City, and was notified that necessary material for use in the campaign will be forwarded to him.

The annual drive by the Allegany-Garrett MD Chapter is held in November along with drives sponsored by chapters across the nation, said Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, who will head the drive in the two Western Maryland counties.

Arthur Nave, secretary treasurer of the chapter, said yesterday that local youngsters recently enjoyed themselves at a Muscular Dystrophy carnival which was held at 205 Humbird Street.

The carnival was held by Barbara and Randy Whittington, Patrick, Michael and Melvin Ritter at the Humbird Street address.

Supper Tomorrow

The ladies auxiliary of Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company will hold a public ham and chicken supper and a bake sale at the fire hall from 5 to 8 p.m. tomorrow, with all proceeds to go to payment for the new fire truck.

Washington St. Parking Ban Is Extended

As a driving safety measure, the Cumberland Police Department is prohibiting parking on the south side of Washington Street between Chase and Allegany streets.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said yesterday that a couple of weeks ago "no parking" became effective on the south side of Washington Street from Lee to Chase streets and the additional block has been added as a safety measure in the neighborhood.

Coal-To-Gasoline Process Federal Contract Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A giant step toward the commercial application of a coal-to-gasoline process will be taken Friday with the signing of a federal contract with Consolidation Coal Co.

The $9.99 million contract will be signed by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall for design, construction and operation of a coal-to-gasoline pilot plant to be located at Cresap, near Moundsville, W. Va.

Udall cautioned that the project is an experimental one which offers hope, but not certainty, of showing a way to produce gasoline from coal at economical competitive costs.

"We believe this type of federal risk-taking in the hopes of substantially expanding the market for coal is what the Congress desired when it established the Office of Coal Research," he said.

The Office of Coal Research, which began operations in 1961, will supervise the project for the Department of the Interior. Under the contract, Consolidation Coal will build and operate the Cresap plant which will be designed to convert approximately 24 tons of coal per day into gasoline.

The plant will be operated to determine the process and equipment alternatives which could enable a full-scale plant to be designed and built as a commercial venture by a private enterprise.

Samuel G. Lasky, acting director of coal research, estimated that the pilot plant will result in addition of $4 million to $5 million to the local Cresap economy in the form of wages, benefits and locally - purchased materials over a three-year period.

If a full-scale commercial plant consuming 10,000 tons of coal a day is built as a result of the project, he said, it might provide temporary employment for more than 1,000 construction workers for two to three years plus permanent employment of about 1,200 miners, operators, maintenance personnel, clerical workers and supervisors when in operation. The commercial operation would represent an annual payroll of about $7.5 million.

All patent and proprietary rights originating during the time of pilot-plant design and operation will belong to the government and will be in the public domain, Udall said. Background patents, owned by the original developers as a result of their initial work, will be made available to the public at moderate cost.
